TRAIN HITS AUTO; MAN DEAD

STATE SCHOOL OFFICER RULES ON ANGLE OF LOCAL PROBLEM

Manual Training Not 'Absolutely Required' in High School.

ELERY OPINION

Third Street School Patrons' Letter Made Public.

Quoting State High School Supervisor C. B. Elery as authority for the ruling, Third street school patrons, renewing their fight against the proposed closing of the elementary building as a means of providing funds for manual training in the high school, declared Friday that the suggested course is not required in first class high schools.

Attorney Ben L. Bennett, counsel for the Third street school patrons, made public a letter from Elery, to whom an inquiry was referred by Vernon M. Riegel, superintendent of public instruction. Elery's letter follows:

"Mr. Riegel has referred to me your letter of Oct. 11 regarding the requirement of a course in manual training in first grade high schools. While this subject is not absolutely required, it is very urgently recommended as an elective. The absence of this course does not lower the rating of students who enter college. On the other hand, it is included as something of value, particularly to those pupils who do not enter college. The East Liverpool high school is recognized as a school of the first grade.

"Hoping this gives you the information you seek, I am,

"Very truly yours,

"C. B. ELERY,

"High School Supervisor."

Kiwanis Opposes Plan.

Third street school patrons said the impression prevailed among some people that the absence of a manual training course made it impossible for the East Liverpool high school to be a grade A institution, thus lowering the standing of graduates who desired to enter college. The local schools now are listed in the first grade.

Definite action on the Third street school proposal is expected at the next meeting of the board of education. The Kiwanis club, Thursday, went on record against the suggestion of the board, while like action has been taken by the Rotary club and five labor unions. Trades and Labor Council is now awaiting the result of an investigation of the problem before expressing its attitude.

PEKING HELD BY GEN. FENG

Christian General May Proclaim "Citizens' Army Republic."

PEKING, Oct. 24.—Following the peaceful occupation of Peking by his forces, General Feng Uuh Siang, famous Christian general, issued a nation-wide proclamation today of his intention of forming a "citizens' army republic" in China with the object of preventing war.

Feng now holds all of the strategic points about Peking and along the Peking-Mukden railroad at Tien Tsin and Teng Shan. He insists that a presidential mandate be issued stopping the present war and the immediate calling of a conference to be held at Peking or Tsin Tsin to take steps to prevent future conflicts.

The ancient Chihli capital remained quiet today. President Tsao Kun continued in office. No news had been received from Marshal Wu Pei Fu against whom, General Feng revolted. Wu is on the Shanghai Kuan front and communications has been interrupted with that section.

Two Men Die in Cave-in.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 24.—Two men are dead today as a result of a cave-in in Hyde park last night. John Doley, 45, and James Simpson, 45, negro, his helper, were killed when the walls of a trench in which they were working fell on them.

EDWARD B. WRIGHT, 49, CARPENTER, KILLED IN GRADE CROSSING CRASH

Body is Badly Mangled When Locomotive of Fast Passenger Train Wrecks Motor Car Near Leetonia.

DRIVER BLINDED BY FOG, BELIEF

Fatality Occurs at Quigley Crossing of Pennsylvania Railroad as East Liverpool Man is Enroute Home.

Struck by a Fort Wayne express shortly after 10 o'clock Thursday night at Quigley's Crossing, between Leetonia and Columbiana, Edward B. Wright, 49 years old, of East Liverpool, sole occupant of a small motor car, was killed. His body was mangled beneath the wheels of the train.

According to employes of the Crowell and Wood morgue at Leetonia, to which place the body was taken following the accident, Wright, presumably was enroute from Columbiana to Leetonia and East Liverpool.

It is believed that he drove up on the railroad tracks, and, unable to see through a dense fog which was settling over the road there at the time, failed to observe the approaching passenger train.

Identified By Deposit Slips.

Wright had attended lodge meeting at Columbiana.

Deputy Sheriff George Wright and Paul Smith, Republican Candidate for county recorded, were driving to Lisbon from attending the Republican rally at East Palestine, and saw the car between the eastbound freight and passenger tracks.

The dead man was identified by deposit slips on his clothing from the Citizen's National Bank and the Potters Saving & Loan Co., of East Liverpool.

The Quigley crossing is considered one of the most dangerous in Columbiana county. It is on the Leetonia-Columbiana road and is unprotected by warning signs or signals.

Funeral Services Saturday

The body and the demolished automobile bore mute evidence of the probable fact that the speeding locomotive and the automobile came together squarely on the tracks.

Wright, who is a carpenter by trade, is survived by his widow and a son, Allen, 14 years old.

The Miller undertaking establishment of this city will send for the body Friday.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family residence, 707 East Fourth street, by Rev. B. R. Johnson, pastor of the First Church of Christ. The body will be removed Sunday morning to Greensburg, Pa., Wright's former home, where interment will be made.

General Lauds Coolidge; Rival Renews Attack on Klan.

BY ALBERT F. BAENZIGER.

ENROUTE TO NEWARK, N. J., WITH GENERAL DAWES, Oct. 24.—General Charles G. Dawes, Republican nominee for vice president, was traveling today in that part of the United States chosen by all candidates as the final battleground of their campaign—the East.

After speaking this evening at Newark, the general will go to New York to address a big Brooklyn rally Saturday night.

The candidate came east under a serious handicap. His voice, which, as a result of a cold, had been troubling him for several days, was worse today. Some of his party feared that unless he got a good rest over the wek-end, it might prove an even worse handicap.

General Dawes realized it himself. "I am glad I am not an opera singer," he told 3,000 persons in the Queen theatre at Wilmington, Del.

Lauds American Women.

Speaking of radicalism, the nominee said that Russia was a horrible example of a nation ruled by demagogues who seized power in a moment of stress and brought bloodshed and chaos in their wake.

A statement is needed in such a time, he said, to stand firmly for the things that are right until peoples cease being mobs and regain their reason.

"Such a man is Coolidge", General Dawes told his listeners. "We know

Risley Is G. O. P. Leader.

Risley, who will share speaking honors with former Governor Davis and Mrs. Place, was born at Mt. Carmel, Ill., in 1864 and educated at Northwestern Normal school, Genesseo, Ill., and Illinois Wesleyan university, Bloomington, Ill. At the latter institution he took his law degree in 1888.

Ontario Province Goes Dry As Farmers Roll Up Big Vote

Majority in Support of Temperance Act and Against Government Control of Liquor Sales is 40,000.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 24.—By a majority expected to total more than 40,000, Ontario today indicated it has sustained its temperance act in the election yesterday. The vote early today stood; for government control of liquor sales, 450,000; for continuance of the temperance act 491,000.

An early analysis of the heated battle shows that it was a fight of the cities against the great farming and village populations. Urban, Ontario voted heavily for control, but the farm vote overcame an early lead which the cities rolled up for the wets and swung the lead back in favor of the temperance act which the province has had for eight years.

Dry Wedge Between Oases.

Ontario stands a vast dry wedge between provinces that are wet. Whether the drys will consider the victory impressive enough to pursue the campaign with the intention of bringing back other provinces which have returned to the wet ranks, was not known today.

The vote indicated a marked change in public sentiment from the vote two years ago. The large majority of 400,000 which the drys compiled in 1922 was greatly reduced, indicating that wet votes had been won by the prospect of American tourists attracted by liquor sales and by the argument that liquor taxes would help reduce the $8,000,000 deficit which confronts the provincial government.

The women's vote was one of the surprises of the election. It gave the drys a majority, but an exceedingly small one. The border areas rolled up their usual large majority for the wets, as did the leading cities, Toronto, London, Ottawa, Hamilton and a number of others known to thousands of American tourists.

Vote "No" on Police Captaincy Ordinance, Is C. of C. Appeal

Distribution of sample ballots of the referendum vote on the council's proposal to abolish the police captaincy has been started by the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Moving picture slides, explaining the referendum and requesting that residents vote to retain the captaincy will be shown in local theaters.

The chamber is seeking to have the captaincy retained and voters are asked to vote "no" on the referendum.

Police Ask Aid In Search for Two Cleveland Slayers

Police Chief Hugh McDermott, Friday, requested residents of the East Liverpool district to be on the lookout for the two men who murdered Patrolman Michael Hahnel of the Shaker Heights police force, who are reported to have fled from Cleveland.

A price of $6,000 has been placed on the heads of the suspects. One is said to be red-headed and the other is reported to have a stoppage in his speech.

Chief McDermott especially requests that foremen of road construction gangs and proprietors of rooming houses inform him immediately if any persons answering the description appear.

The reward is payable for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the slayers.

FIFTH SLAYER GETS REPRIEVE AS HIS PALS DIE ON GIBBET

Montreal is Scene of Quadruple Execution Early Friday.

CROWD ON HAND

Canadians Pay Death Penalty for Roles in $142,000 Hold-up.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—Amid the greatest secrecy and while a crowd of thousands fought with police outside, four murderers of a bank messenger in the $142,000 Hochelaga bank hold-up last April were hanged here today.

The four who died were Gieueseppe Serafini, Antony Frank, Frank Gambino and Louis Morel. A fifth, who was to have been executed with them, Michael Valentino, was given a reprieve by the cabinet at the eleventh hour.

Black Flag Tells Story.

That the men were dead was told to the crowd outside by a black flag that shot jerkily up the staff over the prison when all the traps had been sprung. The executions took place without unforseen event.

Morel and Gambino were the first to die. Morel displayed courage which has been seldom seen by the executioner. He walked to the gibbet with a firm step, spurning assistance. He died without a termor. While his companions had mumbled prayers night and day, Morel had amused himself

TOKIO TROOPS OFF FOR CHINA

Japanese Forces Plan to Protect Peking—Mukden Railroad.

TOKIO, Oct. 24—The Prince Regent today approved a war office order sending two battalions of troops from Port Arthur, to Shanhai-Kuan for the protection of Japanese interests along the Peking-Mukden railroad, which is owned by Japanese capital.

Tien Tsin dispatches reported stringent rules had been promulgated by Wu Pei Fu in this area for the conduct of Japanese nationals and the arrest of all acting suspiciously ordered.

The foreign office stated that inasmuch as "only two companies" had been ordered to Shanhai-Kuan it had not been necessary to consult the other powers. It was said this force was included in the quota authorized in the boxer proctocol as railway guards.

Japanese warships which have been standing by at Shanghai during the fighting about that city were today ordered to proceed at once to Shanhai-Kuan.

Five Investigations Into Death of Four Lorain School Pupils

LORAIN, Oct. 24.—Five investigations into the cause of the train-auto bus crash that late yesterday caused the death of four school children and the injury of 20 more, were under way at noon here today, in an attempt to definitely fix responsibility for it.

In addition to the board of education of Sheffield Lake village, and the Lakeshore electric railway company, two county and one state agency were engaged in an effort to fix the blame. A representative of the state utilities commission arrived this morning, and immediately launched a comprehensive inquiry, while independent probes were under way by the sheriff and coroner.

DR. W. E. BIEDERWOLF CLASSIFIES 'SHIRKERS,' 'JERKERS' AND 'WORKERS' IN CHURCH NIGHT SERMOM

By T. T. JONES.

"It is as much the business of a church to save souls as it is for a pottery to turn out ware." So asserted Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, evangelist, at the union revival in the Second and Washington street tabernacle on Thursday night.

"Christians ought to be Christians and being such the world has a right to expect them to deliver the goods they advertise," he said. "You don't go to a carpenter shop to get a hair cut nor to a shoe store for milk. You know what to expect in both places when you enter. Likewise church members, properly functioning, are dispensers of salvation.

Scores Indifference.

Inveighing against the indifference of many church members and deprecating their lack of conception of what really made spiritual values, Dr. Biederwolf divided them into three classes, the "shirkers," the "jerkers" and the "workers," of whom the last too frequently were in a minority, making for a lowering of the organization's standing, hindering the coming of the kingdom of the Nazarene and contributing ultimately to the loss of many souls, including many of the two former classes.

It was church night at the tabernacle. As such the discourse was particularly apropos. The opportunity for the evangelist pointing the real duties of those connected with the co-operating congregations was there and he seized it in an emphatic manner.

The stage was set for the occasion by the presence in a reserved section of East Liverpool, Newell and Chester, W. Va., church men, who meeting at the First Presbyterian church on Fourth street, marched to the tabernacle in a body.

Headed by the Salvation Army band and led by Adjutant John S. Dean, local commander, the delegation, 300 strong, wended its way west to Market street, thence north through the Diamond to Sixth street, thence east to Washington and on to the tabernacle.

Marching in columns of four, the various church ministers immediately following the band as it played "Onward Christian Soldiers" and other stirring aires, the cavalcade attracted much attention throughout the entire line of march.

Entering the tabernacle at the main Washington street entrance the men were generously cheered by the big audience within. They filed silently into their seats, and following the musical program, listened with rapt attention as Dr. Biederwolf, with humor, pathos and scathing denunciation, enumerated the sins of ommission and commission of the organization to which they held alliegence and for whose propagation and rejuvenation they had just taken part in the event allotted them.

"There are church members in East Liverpool and surrounding territory who have not darkened the door of this tabernacle by their presence," averred Dr. Biederwolf "They won't lift a little finger for the regeneration of the community when such a great combined opportunity is afforded them to do that for which the church to which they gave fealty was organized. They can not have a true conception of their duty as christians. It is an awful thing to be a christian and be indifferent.

"All christians should be praying, agonizing for the Salvation of the lost souls about them. Thus will they save their own. lift higher the morality of the community and develop its spiritually.

"Nehemiah, determined man that he was, came back to Jerusalem to rebuild its dismantled walls. He found opposition at once. This came from within and without his party of followers and the most of it was within.

Wet Blanket Throwers.

"There were the jerkers. They came to him ten times a day to say the task could not be done. It would be a fruitful undertaking. They were the wet blanket throwers.

"And the jerkers are in the churches now. They say you can not have a revival here. It's too much of an effort, is passe and other reasons

CROWD ON HAND

Canadians Pay Death Penalty for Roles in $142,000 Hold-up.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—Amid the greatest secrecy and while a crowd of thousands fought with police outside, four murderers of a bank messenger in the $142,000 Hochelaga bank hold-up last April were hanged here today.

The four who died were Gieueseppe Serafini, Antony Frank, Frank Gambino and Louis Morel. A fifth, who was to have been executed with them, Michael Valentino, was given a reprieve by the cabinet at the eleventh hour.

Black Flag Tells Story.

That the men were dead was told to the crowd outside by a black flag that shot jerkily up the staff over the prison when all the traps had been sprung. The executions took place without unforseen event.

Morel and Gambino were the first to die. Morel displayed courage which has been seldom seen by the executioner. He walked to the gibbet with a firm step, spurning assistance. He died without a termor. While his companions had mumbled prayers night and day, Morel had amused himself

Japanese Forces Plan to Protect Peking—Mukden Railroad.

TOKIO, Oct. 24—The Prince Regent today approved a war office order sending two battalions of troops from Port Arthur, to Shanhai-Kuan for the protection of Japanese interests along the Peking-Mukden railroad, which is owned by Japanese capital.

Tien Tsin dispatches reported stringent rules had been promulgated by Wu Pei Fu in this area for the conduct of Japanese nationals and the arrest of all acting suspiciously ordered.

The foreign office stated that inasmuch as "only two companies" had been ordered to Shanhai-Kuan it had not been necessary to consult the other powers. It was said this force was included in the quota authorized in the boxer proctocol as railway guards.

Japanese warships which have been standing by at Shanghai during the fighting about that city were today ordered to proceed at once to Shanhai-Kuan.

Five Investigations Into Death of Four Lorain School Pupils

LORAIN, Oct. 24.—Five investigations into the cause of the train-auto bus crash that late yesterday caused the death of four school children and the injury of 20 more, were under way at noon here today, in an attempt to definitely fix responsibility for it.

In addition to the board of education of Sheffield Lake village, and the Lakeshore electric railway company, two county and one state agency were engaged in an effort to fix the blame. A representative of the state utilities commission arrived this morning, and immediately launched a comprehensive inquiry, while independent probes were under way by the sheriff and coroner.

DR. W. E. BIEDERWOLF CLASSIFIES 'SHIRKERS,' 'JERKERS' AND 'WORKERS' IN CHURCH NIGHT SERMOM

By T. T. JONES.

"It is as much the business of a church to save souls as it is for a pottery to turn out ware." So asserted Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, evangelist, at the union revival in the Second and Washington street tabernacle on Thursday night.

"Christians ought to be Christians and being such the world has a right to expect them to deliver the goods they advertise," he said. "You don't go to a carpenter shop to get a hair cut nor to a shoe store for milk. You know what to expect in both places when you enter. Likewise church members, properly functioning, are dispensers of salvation.

Scores Indifference.

Inveighing against the indifference of many church members and deprecating their lack of conception of what really made spiritual values, Dr. Biederwolf divided them into three classes, the "shirkers," the "jerkers" and the "workers," of whom the last too frequently were in a minority, making for a lowering of the organization's standing, hindering the coming of the kingdom of the Nazarene and contributing ultimately to the loss of many souls, including many of the two former classes.

It was church night at the tabernacle. As such the discourse was particularly apropos. The opportunity for the evangelist pointing the real duties of those connected with the co-operating congregations was there and he seized it in an emphatic manner.

The stage was set for the occasion by the presence in a reserved section of East Liverpool, Newell and Chester, W. Va., church men, who meeting at the First Presbyterian church on Fourth street, marched to the tabernacle in a body.

Headed by the Salvation Army band and led by Adjutant John S. Dean, local commander, the delegation, 300 strong, wended its way west to Market street, thence north through the Diamond to Sixth street, thence east to Washington and on to the tabernacle.

Marching in columns of four, the various church ministers immediately following the band as it played "Onward Christian Soldiers" and other stirring aires, the cavalcade attracted much attention throughout the entire line of march.

Entering the tabernacle at the main Washington street entrance the men were generously cheered by the big audience within. They filed silently into their seats, and following the musical program, listened with rapt attention as Dr. Biederwolf, with humor, pathos and scathing denunciation, enumerated the sins of ommission and commission of the organization to which they held alliegence and for whose propagation and rejuvenation they had just taken part in the event allotted them.

"There are church members in East Liverpool and surrounding territory who have not darkened the door of this tabernacle by their presence," averred Dr. Biederwolf. "They won't lift a little finger for the regeneration of the community when such a great combined opportunity is afforded them to do that for which the church to which they gave fealty was organized. They can not have a true conception of their duty as christians. It is an awful thing to be a christian and be indifferent.

"All christians should be praying, agonizing for the Salvation of the lost souls about them. Thus will they save their own, lift higher the morality of the community and develop its spiritually.

"Nehemiah, determined man that he was, came back to Jerusalem to rebuild its dismantled walls. He found opposition at once. This came from within and without his party of followers and the most of it was within.

Wet Blanket Throwers.

"There were the jerkers. They came to him ten times a day to say the task could not be done. It would be a fruitful undertaking. They were the wet blanket throwers.

"And the jerkers are in the churches now. They say you can not have a revival here. It's too much of an effort, is passe and other reasons

Sinking Ship Blasts Expedition to Arctic; Towed Into Port

LONDON — A sinking ship, towed into port at Scarborough, on the northeast coast of England, recently, marked the end of an ill-fated Arctic expedition. The ship was the Beltar, and the expedition was led by Gretler Algarsson, a young Icelander.

Early in May of this year the Beltar, a converted trawler, was fitted out for an expedition to explore unknown parts of the Arctic as a prelude to an expedition to the North Pole next year. Algarsson was only 22 years of age, while the members of his small crew were all young Englishmen.

The voyage began July 16, but four days later, when within 100 miles of the Norwegian coast, the ship sprang a leak, and it was only with difficulty she reached dock.

Gas Raise Sought.

AMHERST — Like at Elyria and Wellington, the Logan Gas company has asked the city council for a 75-cent ready-to-serve charge. It is asserted this "gife" by the consumers is needed for the development of the fields.

Chlorine Gas Heals Sore Gums

The reports of the U. S. army surgeons on the curative value of Chlorine Gas in certain diseases read like modern miracles. Out of over a thousand mixed cases 70 % cures are reported.

It is gratifying to find that Chlorine Gas is now available to any person in his home. The gas is combined with other valuable healing agents in a liquid form and has been named Jo-Vex.

Most important of all, it has been found that this new product, Jo-Vex, stops the treacherous gum disease known as Pyorrhea which is usually accompanied by sore and bleeding gums, loose teeth, etc., and which results in broken health and false teeth unless mastered.

Druggists are ordering Jo-Vex for local distribution. C. G. Anderson has just received fresh shipments direct from the laboratory. If your druggist's supply is exhausted The Jo-Vex Chemical Co., Akron, Ohio, will send a full size bottle with complete instructions upon receipt of $1.00.

PRINT THIS ABOUT Joint-Ease Says Druggist

Joint - Ease is selling like hot cakes in my store because it is a wonderful and speedy remedy for all joint troubles.

"But why not impress on tens of thousands of suffering people some of the things that dozens of my customers tell me almost daily.

"Some say that it knocks out lumbago over night—Others assert that for chest colds and sore throat it has no equal, while many insist that there is nothing they ever tried that is so efficient for neuralgia, neuritis and even head colds and nasal catarrh."

Answering the above letter, we, the makers of Joint-Ease, know that what this thriving New Jersey druggist says is true, but we still maintain that Joint-Ease is prepared for stiff, inflamed, painful, swollen joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, finger or spine.

You'll like to use penetrating Joint-Ease, for with just one minute's rubbing, it soaks in through the flesh direct to the ailing bones and ligaments—that's why it succeeds—for when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—And without any waste of time all swelling and congestion disappears. Ask Jesse D. Holloway or any druggist anywhere.

BELLAIRE TEAM HERE SATURDAY

Pignatore Goes to Guard; Ross to be Tried at Half.

Coach Carl Zimmerman's high school footballers are ready to open up a three-week stay on the home lot, entertaining the strong Bellaire scholastic eleven Saturday afternoon at Central park as the first of a trio of outstanding opponents who will give the Orange and Black gridders little time for rest.

The others are Mingo Junction and Leetonia.

Coach Zimmerman expects to shift his backfield for the clash with the down-river aggregation, reputed to be a 140-pound squad with speed and strength on the offense and a strong defensive forward line.

"Wally" Pignatore, injured in the Martins Ferry contest, will go back into the game Saturday, but will be placed at his old position on guard, instead of the backfield where he has played this season.

The backfield quartet will include Captain Snyder at quarter, Ross and Campbell on the halves and D'Anito at fullback.

End Shea will also be back in the game and will take his regular job with Galtier starting on the other end.

As a result of the transfer of Pignatore from the backfield the Orange and Black line is going to be stronger than at any other time this season. Although Pignatore filled in acceptably at fullback he is a far more efficient lineman and probably will work at a guard job the remainder of the season.

Ross, a recruit, has shown unusual promise with ball handling, especially the forward pass, and Saturday he will be given ample opportunity to display his ability. Snyder and D'Anito will supply speed while Campbell and D'Anito will be called upon to punch the line.

The Bellaire eleven has been scored upon only once this season and then by the Bethany Freshmen. The Belmont countians defeated Bridgeport, 6-0; Bethany Freshman 24-7; Cambridge 13-0; Linsly 19-0; and Shinnston, 27-0.

The game will start at 3 o'clock. The probable lineups:

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1924.

ABSENTEE VOTING

Judging from the number of applications for absent voters' ballots received by the deputy state supervisors of elections, Columbiana county electors are heeding the injunction, "Vote as you please, but vote."

With the dead line for the acceptance of applications a week distant supplies have been dispatched to more than 200 voters by Election Board Clerk John W. Moore, while it is not improbable that the 300 mark shall be passed when the absentee voting polls close at midnight on Friday, October 31.

No Ohio elector has an excuse for failure to exercise his right of suffrage at the November 4 election, when a president, state, district and county officers will be chosen. Under the provisions of the law, an elector who expects to be absent from his home precinct on election day has the privilege of applying for ballots 30 days before voting day. The statute provides that no applications shall be accepted later than three days prior to the election.

If business or pleasure calls you from your home precinct, mail your application for ballots to the election board. Supplies will be forwarded, enabling you to mark the ballots and return them before election day.

Remember, it is your duty to vote!

Political Intelligence

Addressing a group of American girls about to vote for the first time, a clear-headed and high-minded minister tells them:

"Your immediate task is to begin the development of an intelligence of a rare kind. Perhaps you will be bewildered by political propaganda in various plausible guises. You must learn to see beneath the surface.

"You must learn what it means when a British prime minister goes to his king and says that the country must pass on the matter of a treaty with Russia. You must learn what the changing politics of central Europe indicate, and the significance of Japanese exclusion. You must learn these things, not as abstract information, but in their relation to the issues on which you must pass at the polls.

"You must get behind the personalities of candidates and learn the background of the things for which they and their parties stand.

"And it will be your privilege to aid in the establishment of a personal contact between the public official and the electorate."

Here is a large order for inexperienced citizens. But it points the sure way to political progress. And it is the right kind of thing to say to first voters. Being still young and plastic-minded, they can learn more readily than their elders. They may make political intelligence less "rare."

Domestic Fire Season

As summer passes and the season of forest fires comes to an end, the season of household fires begins. "Added care in the placing and operating of stoves and furnaces," says one fire chief, "would save the people of the United States $70,000 a day by eliminating expensive fire losses and high insurance rates."

So this is the time of year to do a little fire-prevention work in one's own home. Walls and woodwork about the house should be protected from overheating. Blistered paint and browning woodwork are danger signals. A charred place may burst into flame during a period when an extra hot fire is needed. Pipes should be inspected for rust and should be properly protected. Stored wood, paper or cloth should be gotten rid of or removed from contact with the domestic heating plant. Hot ashes should be kept away from wooden barrels or bins. Flues and chimneys should be clean. WAR HATRED DIES

War hatreds die rapidly. The other day American patriots wanted to lynch musicians for playing Wagner's music—not knowing, presumably, that Wagner had to leave Germany because of his opposition to the kaiser.

Last Monday night, in the biggest theater in New York, a crowd of six thousand, gathered to honor Captain Eckener, of the ZR-3, rose to applaud "Deutschland Uber Alles."

Some of La Follette's admirers not only deny that Germany caused the war, but insist that the war was made by J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. That's going too far.

J. Pierpont Morgan did not make the war, but the war certainly did make J. Pierpont Morgan.

OUR LIQUOR WAR

We have a little war in America, born of prohibition. In that war 40 bootleggers have been killed by United States government agents, and 18 more by coast guards. In addition, hundreds have been killed in bootleggers' quarrels, and in fights between bootleggers and hijackers that prey on bootleggers.

It costs the government more than ten millions a year to carry on the fights against whisky.

Possibly light beer, which might provide successful competition with bootleg whisky, and would certainly yield the government a revenue of five hundred millions a year, may eventually be tried.

PASSENGER FLYING SERVICE

Definite hope of a passenger flying service across the ocean comes from Akron.

The American Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation, now owning Zeppelin patents, will build in Ohio, especially for trans-Atlantic passenger service, an airship of 5,000,000 cubic feet, twice the size of the ZR-3.

Before many years you will go to Europe, swiftly, comfortably, through the air without seasickness. Business men in a hurry will leave for London or Paris on Monday, transact business in both cities, and be back in America for the following week-end. And, that is no dream. You will live to see it a matter of course and will answer the question, "Papa, when are you going to fly to Europe again?"

RUSSIA ADOPTS BUDGET

The Russian government announces a budget, balanced without issuing any paper money, for the first time since the revolution. The total budget is only one billion gold dollars, pitifully small, compared with ours.

Whoever questions the ability of Russians to perform miracles knows little about Russia's history.

The country that Peter the Great could change from a stagnant, Oriental despotism to a great western power in one lifetime, can adapt itself to difficult conditions.

Jacob Franks, father of the boy murdered by Loeb and Leopold, establishes a fund to be used, after his death, to prevent release by pardon, parole or otherwise of the two young murderers condemned to life imprisonment.

Franks' money may balk some good-natured or corrupt official willing to release the young murderers hereafter. It is likely, however, that the parents of those two boys will do more than any fund to keep their sons in prison. There they are safe against themselves.

He is very rich through his Russian mother, who was one of the wealthiest members of the great Russian house of Demidoff and, thanks to her relatives, was brought up entirely in England, is a graduate of Oxford and is one of the most popular of continental royalties in the English great world.

PRINCE PAUL

He served with distinction throughout the great war, and then when it was over returned to Oxford to get the finishing touches of his course there, and is married to Princess Olga of Greece, the pretty daughter of Prince Nicholas of Greece and of his fascinating Russian wife, who was the Grand Duchess Helene Vladimirovna.

It may be remembered that the Duke of York acted as Prince Paul's best man at the wedding at Belgrade a year ago, when the widowed Queen Sophia of Greece suddenly appeared uninvited upon the scene, where her presence led to the premature departure of some of the royal guests and to savage attacks upon her as unwelcomed in all the various organs of the Serbian press.

Prince and Princess Paul have spent the greater part of the past summer at the English royal palace known as the White Lodge, in Richmond Park, which had been lent to them by the Duke and Duchess of York, and it was there that their little boy was born some weeks ago, the christening being attended by the infant's great grandmother, the octogenarian ex-Queen Olga of Greece.

It is understood that, when the new policy of decentralization of the kingdom of Jugo-Slavia has been completed by Premier Davidovitch, Prince Paul and his consort will establish their home at Agram, which is the capital of Croatia and which is also known as Zagreb, and will hold vice-regal court there.

The gentleman did as requested and after waiting for several minutes, he turned to the Scot, and said:

"But I do not hear any echo."

"Maybe no," chuckled the Scot, "but here's the lassie comin' wi' the whisky."

A couple of the many tourists passing through Georgia on their way to Florida came across a road of whose destination they were uncertain. Seeing an old woman rocking on a nearby porch, they called to her, "Auntie, can you tell us where this road goes?"

She gazed thoughtfully at the winding country road, took her pipe out of her month long enough to enlighten them.

"Well, honey," she said, "hit just goes fust one place and then another."

Frank A. Vanderlip said, in an argument about the oil scandals, at a dinner in New York:

"We don't know the whole truth yet, and from half truths optimistic and pessimistic conclusions can with equal justice be drawn. This gets you nowhere. It's like the two clubmen.

"'Marriage,' said the optimistic clubman, 'is a preventive of suicide.'

"'And suicide,' said the pessimistic clubman, 'is a preventive of marriage'."

A passenger too the train from Lyons, entered a sleeper, and tipped the porter liberally to put him out of the train at Dijon.

"I'm a very heavy sleeper," he said, "and you must take no notice of my protests. Seize me and put me out on the platform."

He slept. He awoke as the train steamed into Paris. In a raging fury he went to the porter and expressed some emphatic opinions in a varied vocabulary.

"Ah," said the porter calmly, "you have a bit of a temper, but it's nothing compared with the chap I put out of the train at Dijon!"

John Ruskin was wont to attack all and sundry with a savage merriment which even his best friends at times resented. Once he wrote a friend hoping that a fierce criticism written by him of his friend's picture would make no difference to their friendship. To which the friend had the wit to reply:

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Prussian pompadours are coming back. The Eve Costume Shop. Pass the fig leaves. Lloyd Hamilton. He's comic looking off the screen. One of the noted spenders of Orangeade Gulch—a chiropodist.

Why do most chiropodists wear Van Dykes? The only New Yorkers who irritate me are the Barrymores. Whatever became of the women's skirt that laced up the back like a football. A flood of new stucco movie houses. There's Theodore Dreiser.

The self-conscious aloofness of Belasco. His head seems to be knocking the stars. half dozen flappers in half stockings. No wonder boys are leaving the plows. Echo of the past—a Prince Albert coat and a white lawn tie. Must be a congressman or a lecturer.

Soap box contents yapping for devilish doctrines. A 50 cents a meal restaurant offers hors d'oeuvres. The site of a famous brothel is now a religious book shop. The world grows better. A hunchbacked man gazing at a gargoyle.

A man's shampoo parlor conducted by women. Wonder of there are still female barbers. Corinne Griffith. Broadway ringing with rehearsals for winter. Julian Mitchell, the old Roman of the stage directors. And he's stone deaf.

It must be tough for an actor to be hard of hearing. The bantering crew in front of the Palace. Wish Frank Shutts would send me some more mangoes. Lup'no Lane. A buck dancer who wears a monocle. There's a feat for you.

The Times building is getting scrubbed again. The central office men who hang about the paper-from-your-home-town news stands. Subway gratings throwing off their blast of heat. But tra-la-la—winter is here.

It was a cold reception that met a first night performance last week. The star sat dejectedly in his dressing room.

"What's the matter with that bunch out there?" he asked the press agent.

"They seem to be auulauding with their knees," said the p. a.

Here is a striking and ugly contrast. In a cafe I had just left there was one of the richest young men in America. At his table sat his wife and two men friends. Three bottles of chilled wine in a silver bucket were at their feet. They drank and grew merry. It was indeed a rather hilarious party. Four blocks away a policeman was dragging a whining, unkempt figure to a patrol box. He had been caught selling a half pint of whisky.

It was a rainy afternoon. Two bachelors lounged in deep leather chairs trying to think of some way to shake off a fit of ennui. The club was deserted and telephone calls failed to reach their friends. They couldn't play golf and there wasn't enough for a rubber of bridge. So they decided to play a practical joke on someone. They began to recall who in their lives among their male friends led the purest of lives. They recalled one fellow who went to college with them. He never smoked, drank or indulged in any of the college vices. After graduation he retired to a peaceful community where he led a spotless life. As a joke they sent him the following telegram: "All is discovered. Fly at once." That was six weeks ago and their friend has never been seen in his community since the arrival of the telegram. At least that is the story they tell.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By W. F. SULLIVAN.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 24.—Romance still throbs in the hearts of Americans, given the proper setting and opportunities.

The tourist season just coming to a close throughout the nation set romantic wheels moving, figuratively speaking, with the result that young Cupid's darts were sent flying after automobile wheels and into tourist camps.

Across the line in Kansas is the sister city of the same name, tourists in the 1924 season found the "Gretna Green of America." A glance at the book of the marriage license clerk there shows that he has issued licenses to couples, mostly tourists, from practically every state in the union in the last six months. Likewise couples from England, Greece, Belgium and other foreign nations have signed life contracts there.

Hence, the appellation "Gretna Green of merica." Gretna Green, a small village in Cumbrieshire, Scotland, near the dividing line of England and Scotland, was a haven for all English couples who wished to be married and lacked the consent of their parents or guardians.

Between the years 1754 and 1856 the village became notorious for the large number of persons who came from all over England to be married there.

Enforcement of the English law was strict in the requirement that the consent of the parent or guardian was necessary before a couple could be married. The ambitious couples, however, did not permit law to silence love, and romantic flights to Gretna Green were numerous. There they could be united by the ferryman, blacksmith or tollkeeper merely by expressing the desire to be married.

Old and young couples, gay and sad ones of both ages are included in the list which is kept in the records of Bernadotte Anderson at the Wyandotte county court house.

Anderson has another book—one of memos—in which he has recounted a number of humorous and pathetic incidents he has witnessed in his office.

"They always are nervous, regardless of their age," Anderson said in speaking of the couples who come for the required licenses. "Recently an old man became so excited he dropped a handful of money and coins scattered to all corners of the room."

The clerk tells one of a Mexican youth who bought a license and packed it away in a traveling bag. Later the Mexican lost the bag and, wild-eyed, he dashed back to the clerk's office, asking if the party who found his bag could marry the girl. He bought another license when informed the girl could marry whom she wished.

A farmer who had made a long journey to Kansas' "Gretna Green" refused to pay $3, asserting he could purchase them in other counties in the state for $1.75.

A somewhat amusing tale is told by Anderson of a "first quarrel" of an aged couple as they were preparing to purchase a license. The point in dispute was whether the writing on the marriage license diploma should be plain or in old English script.

Haskin Letter

WHY CROOKS FALL DOWN

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—Although it has been estimated that the huge sum of $100,000,000 or $1 apiece for every man, woman and child in the country, is obtained by forgers and sharpers each year in the United States, the records indicate that the trade does not prove a successful one very long and invariably leads to the jail door.

The same is true of the counterfeiting profession. Although great skill oftentimes is employed in the counterfeiting of money, counterfeiters never grow wealthy and never long elude the toils of the law. Secret service officials say that if forgers and counterfeiters would devote the skill and ingenuity which they apply to their crimes to legitimate pursuits they would make more money and be free of the ever-hovering fear of arrest and imprisonment.

A study of the records should fortify every one in a determination never to cash checks for strangers and to examine paper money with caution. The study shows that in the cleverest scheme which has been hatched so far there is a weak spot. The ideal fraud has not yet been invented in this field. The element of chance enters in somewhere to checkmate the forger or counterfeiter and bring his carefully laid plans to naught.

What is known among bankers as the fool-proof scheme, a scheme which theoretically should work to perfection any time, is an example of the fallibility of criminal perfection. F. Mayer was author of the scheme and worked it for a short time, but finally landed in jail.

Big operators usually start with considerable capital. Mayer went to a large city and opened accounts at four or five banks. The largest was for $5,000. He then proceeded to make artificial transactions of various kinds which would result in withdrawing and depositing substantial sums at all the banks. He kept this up for some months with the purpose of getting acquainted with bank officers and tellers and giving them the impression that he was a man accustomed to deal in large amounts. His checks were always found to be good. He kept all the accounts active and there never was a hitch. The tellers got to feel that a check of Mayer's for any amount was good as gold.

FORGED CERTIFIED CHECKS

After this background had been created, he then would obtain from one of the banks a certified check calling for a large sum—about all he had on deposit at his largest depositary. He then cleverly forged five copies of the certified check. Thus he had certified checks calling for six times the amount of money he was entitled to. He then proceeded to go to the other banks where he was well known and at each of them present a certified check. Known to the tellers as a man who habitually handled large sums, armed with a certified check, it was a matter of course that each check would be honored.

But bank tellers have long memories. The last city in which Mayer operated was Kansas City, where he cleaned up $27,000. Several months later he was walking down a street in Los Angeles when he was recognized by one of the tellers of a bank he had defrauded. The teller had him apprehended and plenty of testimony was forthcoming which resulted in his conviction.

Here was the weak spot. In order to build the background which would make the cashing of the duplicate and forged certified checks possible and even easy, Mayer had to become well known to several bank cashiers and officers. He had to see them so often that there was no question about his identity. This worked both ways. While it made possible the ready cashing of his forged checks it also made possible and almost inevitable his instant recognition anywhere in the world after he had made his getaway.

Charles B. Cole was the inventor of a particularly ingenious and heartless bank fraud scheme. Cole would go to a prosperous business town and open an account of about $5,000 at a good bank. He would interview the officers and explain that he was looking around for a chance to buy a good business. He would assiduously cultivate the tellers and, on the outside, make careful investigations concerning their private lives. He would select a young teller who had a sweetheart, for instance, and also find out the young man's other close friends.

Then, when he was ready to execute his coup he would go to the bank on what he knew in advance would be a busy day with a line of eager people waiting at the paying teller's window to get checks cashed. Previously he had arranged with a confederate to make a telephone call to the teller at precisely the right moment. He would present a check for the $5,000 he had in the bank. Through a system of signals, just as he got his money, the young teller would receive a telephone call telling him his sweetheart has just been in an automobile accident and if he did not go instantly to the hospital he would not see her alive again.

KNEW SWEETHEART'S PET NAME

So thoroughly did Cole work that he learned the pet name of the sweetheart, and it was used in such a way as to be convincing. Immediately the teller would close his widow, call an assistant, and dash off to the hospital. Meantime, the checks just cashed would simply be left on the first teller's desk to await classification on his return. Cole knew enough about banks to know this would happen. Cole thereupon would step into another line, before another paying teller's window and cash a second check for the same amount. It will be seen that, because of the disturbance the first teller did not have an opportunity to debit the account. The second teller would examine the account, find that Cole had $5,000 on deposit and pay the check. So with $10,000 in his pocket instead of $5,000, Cole would leave town.

American banks have an efficient system of checking up on these frauds. Cole did not have a chance to work it more than once or twice before all bank tellers knew that a telephone call bringing a direful message on a busy day right after a big check had been cashed was an automatic signal to beware. So Cole was caught.

William Hamilton Harkins is known to bankers as the master forger, because of his photographic eye and his uncanny ability to imitate a signature without study. Lounging in a bank lobby he looks over the shoulders of patrons at the counters making out checks. He declares and his assertion seems well supported that he needs but a glance at a signature to be able to reproduce it perfectly. Picking out a fairly prosperous appearing person, he stands next to him at the counter and makes out a check himself, meantime, furtively watching the man who stands next to him write his signature. He then goes out and telephones the bank, explaining that he is the man whose signature he has seen. He asks the bank how much money he has on deposit. The bookkeeping department informs him. He then writes a check for nearly all of the money, payable to whatever alias he happens to be using at the time, and signs it with the name of the man whose signature he has memorized. Taking the check to the bank he cashes it because, as likely as not, he has written across the back: "Identification O. K." or something like that, signing it again with the forged name.

These schemes all seem extremely clever, but the interesting fact is that no one ever works a scheme very long and no one ever has grown rich through such methods. The weak spot sooner or later shows up and the perpetrator of the fraud goes to jail.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1924.

ABSENTEE VOTING

Judging from the number of applications for absent voters' ballots received by the deputy state supervisors of elections, Columbiana county electors are heeding the injunction, "Vote as you please, but vote."

With the dead line for the acceptance of applications a week distant supplies have been dispatched to more than 200 voters by Election Board Clerk John W. Moore, while it is not improbable that the 300 mark shall be passed when the absentee voting polls close at midnight on Friday, October 31.

No Ohio elector has an excuse for failure to exercise his right of suffrage at the November 4 election, when a president, state, district and county officers will be chosen. Under the provisions of the law, an elector who expects to be absent from his home precinct on election day has the privilege of applying for ballots 30 days before voting day. The statute provides that no applications shall be accepted later than three days prior to the election.

If business or pleasure calls you from your home precinct, mail your application for ballots to the election board. Supplies will be forwarded, enabling you to mark the ballots and return them before election day.

Remember, it is your duty to vote!

Political Intelligence

Addressing a group of American girls about to vote for the first time, a clear-headed and high-minded minister tells them:

"Your immediate task is to begin the development of an intelligence of a rare kind. Perhaps you will be bewildered by political propaganda in various plausible guises. You must learn to see beneath the surface.

"You must learn what it means when a British prime minister goes to his king and says that the country must pass on the matter of a treaty with Russia. You must learn what the changing politics of central Europe indicate, and the significance of Japanese exclusion. You must learn these things, not as abstract information, but in their relation to the issues on which you must pass at the polls.

"You must get behind the personalities of candidates and learn the background of the things for which they and their parties stand.

"And it will be your privilege to aid in the establishment of a personal contact between the public official and the electorate."

Here is a large order for inexperienced citizens. But it points the sure way to political progress. And it is the right kind of thing to say to first voters. Being still young and plastic-minded, they can learn more readily than their elders. They may make political intelligence less "rare."

Domestic Fire Season

As summer passes and the season of forest fires comes to an end, the season of household fires begins. "Added care in the placing and operating of stoves and furnaces," says one fire chief, "would save the people of the United States $70,000 a day by eliminating expensive fire losses and high insurance rates."

So this is the time of year to do a little fire-prevention work in one's own home. Walls and woodwork about the house should be protected from overheating. Blistered paint and browning woodwork are danger signals. A charred place may burst into flame during a period when an extra hot fire is needed. Pipes should be inspected for rust and should be properly protected. Stored wood, paper or cloth should be gotten rid of or removed from contact with the domestic heating plant. Hot ashes should be kept away from wooden barrels or bins. Flues and chimneys should be clean. And along with all this preventive work it would be well to install a handy fire-extinguisher on every floor and to be sure that all members of the family know how to use it properly.

Looking after these things may take a little time and trouble now, but being burned out of house and home during the winter is considerably more troublesome and costly and even menacing to human life.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Prussian pompadours are coming back. The Eve Costume Shop. Pass the fig leaves. Lloyd Hamilton. He's comic looking off the screen. One of the noted spenders of Orangeade Gulch—a chiropodist.

Why do most chiropodists wear Van Dykes? The only New Yorkers who irritate me are the Barrymores. Whatever became of the women's skirt that laced up the back like a football. A flood of new stucco movie houses. There's Theodore Dreiser.

The self-conscious aloofness of Belasco. His head seems to be knocking the stars. half dozen flappers in half stockings. No wonder boys are leaving the plows. Echo of the past—a Prince Albert coat and a white lawn tie. Must be a congressman or a lecturer.

Soap box contents yapping for devilish doctrines. A 50 cents a meal restaurant offers hors d'oeuvres. The site of a famous brothel is now a religious book shop. The world grows better. A hunchbacked man gazing at a gargoyle.

A man's shampoo parlor conducted by women. Wonder of there are still female barbers. Corinne Griffith. Broadway ringing with rehearsals for winter. Julian Mitchell, the old Roman of the stage directors. And he's stone deaf.

It must be tough for an actor to be hard of hearing. The bantering crew in front of the Palace. Wish Frank Shutts would send me some more mangoes. Lupino Lane. A buck dancer who wears a monocle. There's a feat for you.

The Times building is getting scrubbed again. The central office men who hang about the paper-from-your-home-town news stands. Subway gratings throwing off their blast of heat. But tra-la-la—winter is here.

It was a cold reception that met a first night performance last week. The star sat dejectedly in his dressing room.

"What's the matter with that bunch out there?" he asked the press agent.

"They seem to be auulauding with their knees," said the p. a.

Here is a striking and ugly contrast. In a cafe I had just left there was one of the richest young men in America. At his table sat his wife and two men friends. Three bottles of chilled wine in a silver bucket were at their feet. They drank and grew merry. It was indeed a rather hilarious party. Four blocks away a policeman was dragging a whining, unkempt figure to a patrol box. He had been caught selling a half pint of whisky.

It was a rainy afternoon. Two bachelors lounged in deep leather chairs trying to think of some way to shake off a fit of ennui. The club was deserted and telephone calls failed to reach their friends. They couldn't play golf and there wasn't enough for a rubber of bridge. So they decided to play a practical joke on someone. They began to recall who in their lives among their male friends led the purest of lives. They recalled one fellow who went to college with them. He never smoked, drank or indulged in any of the college vices. After graduation he retired to a peaceful community where he led a spotless life. As a joke they sent him the following telegram: "All is discovered. Fly at once." That was six weeks ago and their friend has never been seen in his community since the arrival of the telegram. At least that is the story they tell.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By W. F. SULLIVAN.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 24.—Romance still throbs in the hearts of Americans, given the proper setting and opportunities.

The tourist season just coming to a close throughout the nation set romantic wheels moving, figuratively speaking, with the result that young Cupid's darts were sent flying after automobile wheels and into tourist camps.

Across the line in Kansas is the sister city of the same name, tourists in the 1924 season found the "Gretna Green of America." A glance at the book of the marriage license clerk there shows that he has issued licenses to couples, mostly tourists, from practically every state in the union in the last six months. Likewise couples from England, Greece, Belgium and other foreign nations have signed life contracts there.

Hence, the appellation "Gretna Green of merica." Gretna Green, a small village in Cumbriashire, Scotland, near the dividing line of England and Scotland, was a haven for all English couples who wished to be married and lacked the consent of their parents or guardians.

Between the years 1754 and 1856 the village became notorious for the large number of persons who came from all over England to be married there.

Enforcement of the English law was strict in the requirement that the consent of the parent or guardian was necessary before a couple could be married. The ambitious couples, however, did not permit law to silence love, and romantic flights to Gretna Green were numerous. There they could be united by the ferryman, blacksmith or tollkeeper merely by expressing the desire to be married.

Old and young couples, gay and sad ones of both ages are included in the list which is kept in the records of Bernadotte Anderson at the Wyandotte county court house.

Anderson has another book—one of memos—in which he has recounted a number of humorous and pathetic incidents he has witnessed in his office.

"They always are nervous, regardless of their age," Anderson said in speaking of the couples who come for the required licenses. "Recently an old man became so excited he dropped a handful of money and coins scattered to all corners of the room."

The clerk tells one of a Mexican youth who bought a license and packed it away in a traveling bag. Later the Mexican lost the bag and, wild-eyed, he dashed back to the clerk's office, asking if the party who found his bag could marry the girl. He bought another license when informed the girl could marry whom she wished.

A farmer who had made a long journey to Kansas' "Gretna Green" refused to pay $3, asserting he could purchase them in other counties in the state for $1.75.

A somewhat amusing tale is told by Anderson of a "first quarrel" of an aged couple as they were preparing to purchase a license. The point in dispute was whether the writing on the marriage license diploma should be plain or in old English script.

Haskin Letter

WHY CROOKS FALL DOWN

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—Although it has been estimated that the huge sum of $100,000,000 or $1 apiece for every man, woman and child in the country, is obtained by forgers and sharpers each year in the United States, the records indicate that the trade does not prove a successful one very long and invariably leads to the jail door.

The same is true of the counterfeiting profession. Although great skill oftentimes is employed in the counterfeiting of money, counterfeiters never grow wealthy and never long elude the toils of the law. Secret service officials say that if forgers and counterfeiters would devote the skill and ingenuity which they apply to their crimes to legitimate pursuits they would make more money and be free of the ever-hovering fear of arrest and imprisonment.

A study of the records should fortify every one in a determination never to cash checks for strangers and to examine paper money with caution. The study shows that in the cleverest scheme which has been hatched so far there is a weak spot. The ideal fraud has not yet been invented in this field. The element of chance enters in somewhere to checkmate the forger or counterfeiter and bring his carefully laid plans to naught.

What is known among bankers as the fool-proof scheme, a scheme which theoretically should work to perfection [illegible] time, is an example of the fallibility of criminal perfection. F. Mayer was author of the scheme and worked it for a short time, but finally landed in jail.

Big operators usually start with considerable capital. Mayer went to a large city and opened accounts at four or five banks. The largest was for $5,000. He then proceeded to make artificial transactions of various kinds which would result in withdrawing and depositing substantial sums at all the banks. He kept this up for some months with the purpose of getting acquainted with bank officers and tellers and giving them the impression that he was a man accustomed to deal in large amounts. His checks were always found to be good. He kept all the accounts active and there never was a hitch. The tellers got to feel that a check of Mayer's for any amount was good as gold.

FORGED CERTIFIED CHECKS

After this background had been created, he then would obtain from one of the banks a certified check calling for a large sum—about all he had on deposit at his largest depositary. He then cleverly forged five copies of the certified check. Thus he had certified checks calling for six times the amount of money he was entitled to. He then proceeded to go to the other banks where he was well known and at each of them present a certified check. Known to the tellers as a man who habitually handled large sums, armed with a certified check, it was a matter of course that each check would be honored.

But bank tellers have long memories. The last city in which Mayer operated was Kansas City, where he cleaned up $27,000. Several months later he was walking down a street in Los Angeles when he was recognized by one of the tellers of a bank he had defrauded. The teller had him apprehended and plenty of testimony was forthcoming which resulted in his conviction.

Here was the weak spot. In order to build the background which would make the cashing of the duplicate and forged certified checks possible and even easy, Mayer had to become well known to several bank cashiers and officers. He had to see them so often that there was no question about his identity. This worked both ways. While it made possible the ready cashing of his forged checks it also made possible and almost inevitable his instant recognition anywhere in the world after he had made his getaway.

Charles R. Cole was the inventor of a particularly ingenious and heartless bank fraud scheme. Cole would go to a prosperous business town and open an account of about $5,000 at a good bank. He would interview the officers and explain that he was looking around for a chance to buy a good business. He would assiduously cultivate the tellers and, on the outside, make careful investigations concerning their private lives. He would select a young teller who had a sweetheart, for instance, and also find out the young man's other close friends.

Then, when he was ready to execute his coup he would go to the bank on what he knew in advance would be a busy day with a line of eager people waiting at the paying teller's window to get checks cashed. Previously he had arranged with a confederate to make a telephone call to the teller at precisely the right moment. He would present a check for the $5,000 he had in the bank. Through a system of signals, just as he got his money, the young teller would receive a telephone call telling him his sweetheart has just been in an automobile accident and if he did not go instantly to the hospital he would not see her alive again.

KNEW SWEETHEART'S PET NAME

So thoroughly did Cole work that he learned the pet name of the sweetheart, and it was used in such a way as to be convincing. Immediately the teller would close his widow, call an assistant, and dash off to the hospital. Meantime, the checks just cashed would simply be left on the first teller's desk to await classification on his return. Cole knew enough [illegible] banks to know this would happen. Cole thereupon would step into another line, before another paying teller's window and cash a second check for the same amount. It will be seen that, because of the disturbance the first teller did not have an opportunity to debit the account. The second teller would examine the account, find that Cole had $5,000 on deposit and pay the check. So with $10,000 in his pocket instead of $5,000, Cole would leave town.

American banks have an erricient system of checking up on these frauds. Cole did not have a chance to work it more than once or twice before all bank tellers knew that a telephone call bringing a direful message on a busy day right after a big check had been cashed was an automatic signal to beware. So Cole was caught.

William Hamilton Harkins is known to bankers as the master forger, because of his photographic eye and his uncanny ability to imitate a signature without study. Lounging in a bank lobby he looks over the shoulders of patrons at the counters making out checks. He declares and his assertion seems well supported that he needs but a glance at a signature to be able to reproduce it perfectly. Picking out a fairly prosperous appearing person, he stands next to him at the counter and makes out a check himself, meantime, furtively watching the man who stands next to him write his signature. He then goes out and telephones the bank, explaining that he is the man whose signature he has seen. He asks the bank how much money he has on deposit. The bookkeeping department informs him. He then writes a check for nearly all of the money, payable to whatever alias he happens to be using at the time, and signs it with the name of the man whose signature he has memorized. Taking the check to the bank he cashes it because, as likely as not, he has written across the back: "identification O. K." or something like that, signing it again with the forged name.

These schemes all seem extremely clever, but the interesting fact is that no one ever works a scheme very long and no one ever has grown rich through such methods. The weak spot sooner or later shows up and the perpetrator of the fraud goes to jail.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON

A Triangle.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married two years and lived happily until three months ago when my husband became infatuated with other women and gave all his attention to them. He would go out with them and come back and tell me of whom he had been with. He said he didn't want any one else to tell me. Now we are separated. I love him truly and dearly and often times wish I hadn't left him. Did I do the right thing? Please advise me as to what I am to do. I do so much want to live with him. He seemed to love me before I left him but now he says he hates me. Is there anything I can do to win his love back again?

D. A. C.

Surely you failed your husband in some respect or he would not have rebelled and started going with other women. The fact that he has chosen different women instead of one woman looks very much like rebellion on his part. They say there is safety in numbers. If you had one woman to fight your task would be more difficult. Think over your life with your husband and face yourself squarely. If you see wherein you have failed, write and say you are sorry and you would like to try again. Perhaps you have nagged and made his life at home miserable, or you may have failed to be a companion and let work and other interests come between you. There are many possibilities and if you want to rectify the matter you will have to be honest with yourself. Probably it is just as well that you left for a while. Both you and your husband will be better for the change. I imagine he will be just as glad to have you back as you will be to go.

Tattletales.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 17 and I go with a boy of my age. He seems to think as much of me as I do of him. A girl friend of mine and of his tries to break our friendship by telling untruthful stories about me. But he does not seem to believe them for he has never gone with her. He doesn't go with any other girls and I do not go with other boys, because I don't care for any others in my acquaintance. What can I do?

B. L.

Since the boy does not believe the stories he hears, try to forget about the matter. Of course the girl is not your friend and you should avoid any closeness with her. Also do not say unkind things about her to the boy. If you act above what she says, he will believe in you more than as if you tried to defend yourself.

DEFIANCE, O.—As an outcome of the recommendation filed with the state medical board by Coroner G. E. Winn, following the death of Geraldine Esther Friend, 6, here May 9, Dr. W. C. Jackson, of Bryan, has been cited to appear before the board at its January meeting for a hearing on revocation of his license to practice as an osteopathic physician. The coroner's verdict held the child died of asphyxiation from ether given in preparation for removal of tonsils and that the physician had exceeded the restrictions of his surgical license.

SLAYERS SLASH MAN'S THROAT

Body, Stiletto in Back, Is Left Hanging Over Fence.

KENT, O., Oct. 24.—The body of Rocco Rinerello, 35, was found late last night, hanging over a fence about a mile from this city. The man's throat was cut from ear to ear and a stiletto was buried to the hilt in his back.

Coroner R. D. Worden of Portage county this morning called an inquest.

Alfred Johnson, a farmer, found the body as he was driving to Kent with a load of potatoes for early morning market. He saw the corpse stretched across a fence near the railway and hastened to notify the proper authorities. Investigation by officers showed that a struggle had taken place. Weeds and grass in the vicinity were trampled and a clump of grass was tightly clutched in Rinerallo's hand. When the officers arrived the body had slipped to the ground and lay upon its back.

The neck had been cut clear around, one eye was destroyed and face, hands and arms were slashed. There was no money in the clothes.

Leo Mussolini of Kent told police he last saw Rinerallo Sunday night. The man came here from Sharon, Pa., six months ago. It is though he was murdered in an automobile and then left hanging over the fence.

Uncle Sam Uncertain As Newspapers Use Income Tax Figures

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The question of whether it is or is not legal for newspapers to publish individual income tax returns, thrown open to public inspection under the new revenue law, was left suspended in mid-air today by the unwillingness or inability of government officials to issue a definite ruling on the matter.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and some of his practical aides at the department expressed the opinion that publication of the returns is illegal, but other treasury officials held different views and expressed the private opinion that the revenue law of 1924 permitted the publication of income tax paid.

In the face of this conflict of opinion, the department of justice marked time and did nothing except to announce that "in due course a conclusion will be reached."

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24.—Absolute refusal to permit any inspection whatever of income tax returns in this district was made at the office of the collector of internal revenue here today. In the absence of Collector Carl F. Routzahn, Chief Deputy Steinmetz declared that under orders from Washington he would permit no inspection of any return whatever, unless a message countermands these orders was received.

Steinmetz declared that inspection of the list was punishable by a fine of $1,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—Publication of income tax payments in the New York district here today disclosed that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., paid a tax of $7,435,169.41, and J. P. Morgan $89,643.67; John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate for president, was assessed $84,425.20.

There were violent protests here from men of wealth when newspapers blazoned their belongings to the public. The internal revenue offices were expecting a rush from curious persons.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24. — Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, paid a tax of $1,173,987.85 on his income for last year, according to reports made public by the internal revenue office here today.

Keep Auto Lights On at Night or Pay Fine, Warning

"Keep your automobile lighted properly at night or pay a fine" was the warning from Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, Friday.

Police have started a campaign against violators of the state automobile lighting law in an effort to prevent accidents on the highways.

Warnings are issued to motorists not to drive with only one light burning and to always be sure that their tail light is lit.

The state law, Chief McDermott said, requires that lights on cars be three and one-half feet from the ground and that the beam of light should be thrown 75 feet ahead of the car. When the lights are higher on the front of the car, the glare blinds other drivers, he said.

This law will also be enforced.

tending to keep them from aiding. These oppose what the pastor and a majority of the congregation want to do.

"The jerkers are like the man wanting to be an elder whose only qualification was his assertion 'I can object.'"

Then there were the shirkers. These in Nehemiah's day put not "their necks to the work." Their kind are in the church now — the "high falutin'" ones, who will pray but do nothing else. James said that faith without works is dead. To be a Christian implies work with faith. Some, however, think all they need to do is to join church and as if in a Pullman berth await the call to step out at heaven's gate.

Lack Conception of Duty.

Shirkers in a church have no more conception of what it is to be a Christian than the jerkers. Of such there are many just now in East Liverpool. Failing to do their manifest duty at this time God sometime will speak to them about it.

Text of Dr. W. E. Biederwolf's Thursday night sermon is printed on page 17.

Then the church has the workers. With Nehemiah they "had a mind to work." It has been given to us to work. We can do nothing without labor. By it has come all the world's accomplishments. In this manner have many souls been saved.

Some churchman think their minister must do all the work. And they do well with the material they have to work on.

God pity the church man who fails to realize that he must work to be a Christian. There are many in East Liverpool, who if not saved in this revival, will spend eternity in hell. Yours is the responsibility to lead them to where you churchmen claim to be.

Preceding the sermon, as per the announcement of Dr. Biederwolf on Wednesday night, Mr. McEwan sang, "O My Soul, Bless Thou Jehovah," Rev. Frank Magill, of Wellsville, offered the opening prayer.

Announcement was made that two prayer rooms would be built. One on each side of the choir platform.

Following the sermon "Corps No. 1" was briefly addressed by Miss Wilma Davis, women's worker, and "Corps No 2" organized by Dr. Biederwolf.

The subject of Friday night's sermon will be: "The Devil's Cup."

Centers Drive on Empire State.

ABOARD DAVIS SPECIAL, EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 24.—The supreme hope of the Democratic party for victory in the 1924 presidential race was centered on New York today as John W. Davis hurried eastward to close his campaign with a drive to carry the Empire state.

Due to reach New York city late this afternoon, Davis will devote the next seven days to campaigning within its five boroughs. One exception will be made—Monday—when he will cross the Hudson for a sortie into New Jersey. His daily itinerary will include from three to seven speeches with visits into every nook and corner of the metropolis.

In his closing drive, Davis will have the hearty co-operation of Tammany Hall and its leader, George Olvany. This plan of action, in fact, was decided upon by the nominee only after it was earnestly urged by Olvany and other New York state leaders, who declared he had an even chance of winning the state by rolling up a big majority in New York city. The climax to the drive will be the night of Saturday, Nov. 1, when Davis will close his campaign with an address in Carnegie Hall.

Member of Elks and Masons.

A new attack upon the Ku Klux Klan, featured the nominee's last speech—in Cleveland—on his western tour. Responding to a question asked by a heckler, Davis said:

"I have taken my stand in favor of the Fundamental guarantees of freedom in religious faith and practice and against any threat from whatever quarter to diminish the civic or the social or the political rights of any man because of his choice to adopt the religion that he learned at his mother's knee.

"And whenever the day shall come that I am unwilling to lift either hand or voice in defense of that great principle, I trust my arm will fall palsied at my side and my tongue will cleave to the roof of my mouth."

Davis said he held membership in two secret orders, the Elks and the Masons, and that if ever either attempted to enter the political field, he would immediately sever his connection.

Coolidge's Last Campaign Speech

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Coolidge's speech to eastern business leaders here last night, in which he gave a comprehensive digest of the things he considers paramount in the triangular presidential campaign now drawing to a close, represents his final political effort in the campaign, it was said at the White House today.

For the duration of the campaign, Mr. Coolidge will greet a few "back porch" delegations at the White House, write a few letters, and counsel with his political advisers, but his Chamber of Commerce speech can be considered his "last word." On it he is willing to stake his chances at the polls 10 days hence.

Prosperity and economy constituted not only the keynote, but the alpha and omega of the president's address. He professed profound satisfaction with business conditions as they now exist, claimed credit for the Republican party in bringing them about, and forecast a continuation of them only if the government is conducted along lines already laid down.

Mr. Coolidge did more than merely review the accomplishments of the Republican administration. He went further and afforded an illuminating insight into what may be expected to be the major policies of his administration during the next four years if it is returned to power. Without once mentioning his political opponents or their policies by name, he definitely took several well directed slaps at the much-derided La Follette's advocacy of public ownership of railroads and utilities, and he answered John W. Davis' plea for greater American participation in European affairs, by stressing the prosperity that has come to the United States by following a policy of semi-isolation and independent action in foreign affairs.

shire Republican state convention, and he was selected by the Republican National committee to represent the party before the League of Women Voters at their New York convention.

Meetings in Other Cities.

Former Governor Davis will arrive here early tonight from Salem, where he and Congressman Frank Murphy, of Steubenville, will appear at another rally.

Through arrangements made by County Chairman C. E. Hamilton, of Lisbon, meetings will be held in four county towns—East Liverpool, Salem, Salineville and Wellsville—tonight, while an enthusiastic rally was held in East Palestine, Thursday evening, when Congressman Murphy and Probate Judge Lodge Riddle made addresses.

Percy Tetlow, formerly of Salem, but now of Columbus, former national statistican of the United Mine Workers of America, and Mrs. Ruth Moser Place will be the speakers at the Wellsville meeting.

Large Enrollment As Y. M. C. A. Study Classes Are Opened

Y. M. C. A. evening study classes opened on Thursday night, with large enrollments in the economics and English departments. Economics is being taught by Dr. J. O. Campbell and English by Brady Buchanan.

The commercial law class, taught by Attorney W. S. Foulks, will convene on Friday night at 7 o'clock. G. L. Brokaw will teach the class in American history, starting at 8 o'clock.

STRAIGHT-FROM-SHOULDER BLOWS BY EVANGELIST W. E. BIEDERWOLF

Nehemiah prayed to God. That is the place to address prayer.

What would not God do if the people who bear His name would permit the Holy Ghost to work through them.

What a great work the church ought to do in East Liverpool were the members possessed with the soul-stirring conception of spiritual values.

Indifference of His followers and their lack of concern for the souls of people about them broke the heart of Jesus Christ.

The world has the right to expect Christians to deliver the goods they advertise.

All persons, if Christians, should be a great spritiual locomotive, full of divine light and power and headed for heaven with a train load of souls behind.

It is as much the business of a church to save souls as it is for a pottery to turn out ware.

Why don't church members try to be "wings" and not "weights?"

Moody declared a knocking Christian never saved a solitary soul.

Shirking church members, the "highfalutin" ones, pray well, but do nothing towards winning souls. Lot of church members live in the 23rd Psalm, "Let me lie down" when what the Lord wants is for them to "get up."

Too many church members wear many pairs of "hold backs" to one pair of tugs."

When God finished making the Universe He made the rattlesnake and skunk and with what was left he made the "knocker."

Many church men, knocking, would be pall bearers before the patient passes out.

Not all the opposition to a revival comes from people on the outside of a church, the most of it comes from the inside.

Every church has its workers, shirkers and jerkers, the two latter often predominating.

Church members, who would sing their way to bliss, and let the devil go in in his own sweet way, will get bliss if they keep up their indifference long enough.

It is an awful thing to live in church and be indifferent.

God, some day in His own way, will speak to indifferent church members.

Some day an "Electro-Scoop" will fly from East Liverpool and land you in San Francisco three hours before you start.

Preachers are doing the best they can with the material they have on hand.

SHAVINGS AND SAWDUST FOUND IN DR. BIEDERWOLF'S TABERNACLE

The sermon of Dr. Biederwolf on Friday night will be on the subject "The Devil's Cup." The subject on Saturday night will be "What Is the Matter With East Liverpool?" The original subject for Saturday night was "If Christ Came to East Liverpool." Local conditions will be discussed in this discourse.

Religious magazines and periodicals the country over have been advised through Mrs. Martin of Pittsburgh of the work so far done in the East Liverpool revival. Much impressed by Dr. Biederwolf's preaching, Mrs. Martin returned to Pittsburgh on Friday, thus completing a week's stay here. She proposes coming back later in the campaign, however. Pittsburgh laymen, inquiring the nature of the start of the revival here, will also be given a report by Mrs. Martin which may portend for the Smoky City a similar movement.

Dr. Biederwolf, again voicing his appreciation of the work of the local press in giving publicity to the campaign, urged his hearers to send the Review-Tribune to their friends all over the country so that they too may have the benefit of the revival messages

"You can do this for $1 during the campaign and the paper will be mailed to the address which you give," he announced. "This is another way in which you can aid in the revival while at the same time exhibiting the civic pride you should show in the paper of your city that is so capably dispensing the news of this and other events."

To further deepen the spiritual tone of the revival two inside rooms will be erected within the tabernacle, one on the southside of the choir platform and the other on the northern end of it. Both will be utilized for prayer, the men meeting in one and the women in the other. Both these services will be held nightly at 7 o'clock before the beginning of the night program. The buildings will be erected by volunteers.

"Corps No. 2," made up of church members, was organized Thursday night following the sermon by Dr. Biederwolf. It will cooperate with "Corps No. 1" in doing personal work.

Campaign Manager James Heaton is a busy man these days. What with keeping in touch with every worker of the party from Dr. Biederwolf down, directing the constant work being done at the tabernacle, meeting delegations at the close of the night services, attending morning conferences of the staff, rushing to pottery meetings at noon and incidentally releasing a song or two at one or all of these gatherings, including the night session, to say nothing of a final word with his chief after the latter returns to his quarters at the Carl Faulk home on Sixth street, he manages to slumber without the aid of opiates.

Four Hanged

with setting up exercises of various sorts in his cell. Gambino was visibly affected. Frank, once a king of the Montreal underworld, went to pieces at the last moment. He was nearly in collapse. Serafini insisted his innocence to the last.

The executions took place in the Bordeaux prison.

Curious Flock To Scene

It might have been a county fair, not a quadruple execution that took place in Bordeaux prison, to judge from the crowds that flocked about the reservation, where they could hope to see nothing more than the stone-walls that are there every day.

The first of the curious to gather arrived between three and five o'clock in the morning. The traps, it had been reported, then would be sprung. Motorcycle constables permitted none to step near the prison. Inside the gates were 25 Provincial police, ready to cope with whatever disorder might arise.

After dawn thousands of persons either motored to and from or walked near the prison. The cycle police were unable to handle the mob and reserves were called from every station in the city that could spare them.

Commute One Death Sentence.

Searchlights that had whitened the sky all night, played on the crowds in the pre-dawn hours.

The cabinet, in sparing Valentino, also commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Leo Davis, who was to have been hanged at a later date. Valentino and Davis will be taken to St. Vincent de Paul prison. Last-minute statements made by the condemned men, in which they agreed that Valentino and Davis were mere tools in their hands, saved the two.

Of the $142,000 taken in the holdup, $100,000 never has been recovered.

One Slayer Once Detective.

Louis Morel, leader of the bandits, and once a Montreal detective, wrote two letters as the hour approached for the march to the gallows. One was addressed to his children, the other to the newspapers.

The prisoners received their final visits from relatives yesterday.

Tony Frank long has been recognized as an underworld leader in Montreal and Gambino was known as his lieutenant. Morel was a member of the Montreal detective force for many years and was one of the greatest athletes in Canada.

Only two of the condemned men were present when Cleroux was killed, testimony showed. They were Morel and Serafini, but Frank and Gambino had taken an important part in the plotting of the robbery, it was shown. Nieri, a seventh member of the gang, was also present when Cleroux was killed. He saved his own life by turning King's evidence.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A forward movement in the price of copper stocks featured the early trading in the stock market today.

Specialty stocks and motor shares also continued the rally, which has been in progress since Wednesday.

Oil stocks were fairly strong at a higher range. Bethlehem Steel staged a moderate comeback, advancing about one point at the opening, which represented a gain of 2½ points from the low of the week.

Money renewed at 2 per cent, industrial reports were generally favorable and the banking situation was shown to be better prepared for the financing of heavy industrial or speculative activities.

American Smelting at 79½, up 1½ points, was the leader of the copper stocks, but good demand was also seen for Anaconda, United States Smelters, Chile Copper, Cerro De Pasco, St. Joseph lead and other metal stocks, based on the prospect of the opening up of European markets for American red metal.

Maxwell Motor "A" stock went above 67 for a new 1924 high, Mack Trucks was up 1¼ at 100, Studebaker and Chandler were active at fractionally higher prices, and leading accessory company stocks, like Stewart Warner, made the best showing of the week to date. Baldwin General Electric and American Can, the most prominent industrial leaders, were in demand for short covering, and Cast Iron Pipe sold up two points at 114½ for the same reason.

Activity in the railroad stocks fell off after the first period, but New York Central held its market interest, and large blocks of the stock were sold at 108. Western oil stocks made the best showing in the petroleum group, trading in the California stocks being in the largest volume.

The cotton market was irregular, with prices down 50 points in October contracts. Grains were barely steady.

SLAYERS SLASH MAN'S THROAT

Body, Stiletto in Back, Is Left Hanging Over Fence.

KENT, O., Oct. 24.—The body of Rocco Rinerello, 35, was found late last night, hanging over a fence about a mile from this city. The man's throat was cut from ear to ear and a stiletto was buried to the hilt in his back.

Coroner R. D. Worden of Portage county this morning called an inquest.

Alfred Johnson, a farmer, found the body as he was driving to Kent with a load of potatoes for early morning market. He saw the corpse stretched across a fence near the railway and hastened to notify the proper authorities. Investigation by officers showed that a struggle had taken place. Weeds and grass in the vicinity were trampled and a clump of grass was tightly clutched in Rinerallo's hand. When the officers arrived the body had slipped to the ground and lay upon its back.

The neck had been cut clear around, one eye was destroyed and face, hands and arms were slashed. There was no money in the clothes.

Leo Mussolini of Kent told police he last saw Rinerallo Sunday night. The man came here from Sharon, Pa., six months ago. It is though he was murdered in an automobile and then left hanging over the fence.

Uncle Sam Uncertain As Newspapers Use Income Tax Figures

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The question of whether it is or is not legal for newspapers to publish individual income tax returns, thrown open to public inspection under the new revenue law, was left suspended in midair today by the unwillingness or inability of government officials to issue a definite ruling on the matter.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and some of his practical aides at the department expressed the opinion that publication of the returns is illegal, but other treasury officials held different views and expressed the private opinion that the revenue law of 1924 permitted the publication of income tax paid.

In the face of this conflict of opinion, the department of justice marked time and did nothing except to announce that "in due course a conclusion will be reached."

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24.—Absolute refusal to permit any inspection whatever of income tax returns in this district was made at the office of the collector of internal revenue here today. In the absence of Collector Carl F. Routzahn, Chief Deputy Steinmetz declared that under orders from Washington he would permit no inspection of any return whatever, unless a message countermands these orders was received.

Steinmetz declared that inspection of the list was punishable by a fine of $1,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—Publication of income tax payments in the New York district here today disclosed that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., paid a tax of $7,435,169.41, and J. P. Morgan $89,643.67; John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate for president, was assessed $84,425.20.

There were violent protests here from men of wealth when newspapers blazoned their belongings to the public. The internal revenue offices were expecting a rush from curious persons.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24. — Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, paid a tax of $1,173,987.85 on his income for last year, according to reports made public by the internal revenue office here today.

Keep Auto Lights On at Night or Pay Fine, Warning

"Keep your automobile lighted properly at night or pay a fine" was the warning from Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, Friday.

Police have started a campaign against violators of the state automobile lighting law in an effort to prevent accidents on the highways.

Warnings are issued to motorists not to drive with only one light burning and to always be sure that their tail light is lit.

The state law, Chief McDermott said, requires that lights on cars be three and one-half feet from the ground and that the beam of light should be thrown 75 feet ahead of the car. When the lights are higher on the front of the car, the glare blinds other drivers, he said.

This law will also be enforced.

tending to keep them from aiding. These oppose what the pastor and a majority of the congregation want to do.

"The jerkers are like the man wanting to be an elder whose only qualification was his assertion 'I can object.'"

Then there were the shirkers. These in Nehemiah's day put not "their necks to the work." Their kind are in the church now — the "high falutin'" ones, who will pray but do nothing else. James said that faith without works is dead. To be a Christian implies work with faith. Some, however, think all they need to do is to join church and as if in a Pullman berth await the call to step out at heaven's gate.

Lack Conception of Duty.

Shirkers in a church have no more conception of what it is to be a Christian than the jerkers. Of such there are many just now in East Liverpool. Failing to do their manifest duty at this time God sometime will speak to them about it.

Text of Dr. W. E. Biederwolf's Thursday night sermon is printed on page 17.

Then the church has the workers. With Nehemiah they "had a mind to work." It has been given to us to work. We can do nothing without labor. By it has come all the world's accomplishments. In this manner have many souls been saved.

Some churchman think their minister must do all the work. And they do well with the material they have to work on.

God pity the church man who fails to realize that he must work to be a Christian. There are many in East Liverpool, who if not saved in this revival, will spend eternity in hell. Yours is the responsibility to lead them to where you churchmen claim to be.

Preceding the sermon, as per the announcement of Dr. Biederwolf on Wednesday night, Mr. McEwan sang, "O My Soul, Bless Thou Jehovah," Rev. Frank Magill, of Wellsville, offered the opening prayer.

Announcement was made that two prayer rooms would be built. One on each side of the choir platform.

Following the sermon "Corps No. 1" was briefly addressed by Miss Wilma Davis, women's worker, and "Corps No 2" organized by Dr. Biederwolf.

The subject of Friday night's sermon will be: "The Devil's Cup."

Centers Drive on Empire State.

ABOARD DAVIS SPECIAL, EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 24.—The supreme hope of the Democratic party for victory in the 1924 presidential race was centered on New York today as John W. Davis hurried eastward to close his campaign with a drive to carry the Empire state.

Due to reach New York city late this afternoon, Davis will devote the next seven days to campaigning within its five boroughs. One exception will be made—Monday—when he will cross the Hudson for a sortie into New Jersey. His daily itinerary will include from three to seven speeches with visits into every nook and corner of the metropolis.

In his closing drive, Davis will have the hearty co-operation of Tammany Hall and its leader, George Olvany. This plan of action, in fact, was decided upon by the nominee only after it was earnestly urged by Olvany and other New York state leaders, who declared he had an even chance of winning the state by rolling up a big majority in New York city. The climax to the drive will be the night of Saturday, Nov. 1, when Davis will close his campaign with an address in Carnegie Hall.

Member of Elks and Masons.

A new attack upon the Ku Klux Klan, featured the nominee's last speech—in Cleveland—on his western tour. Responding to a question asked by a heckler, Davis said:

"I have taken my stand in favor of the Fundamental guarantees of freedom in religious faith and practice and against any threat from whatever quarter to diminish the civic or the social or the political rights of any man because of his choice to adopt the religion that he learned at his mother's knee.

"And whenever the day shall come that I am unwilling to lift either hand or voice in defense of that great principle, I trust my arm will fall palsied at my side and my tongue will cleave to the roof of my mouth."

Davis said he held membership in two secret orders, the Elks and the Masons, and that if ever either attempted to enter the political field, he would immediately sever his connection.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
Coolidge's Last Campaign Speech

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Coolidge's speech to eastern business leaders here last night, in which he gave a comprehensive digest of the things he considers paramount in the triangular presidential campaign now drawing to a close, represents his final political effort in the campaign, it was said at the White House today.

For the duration of the campaign, Mr. Coolidge will greet a few "back porch" delegations at the White House, write a few letters, and counsel with his political advisers, but his Chamber of Commerce speech can be considered his "last word." On it he is willing to stake his chances at the polls 10 days hence.

Prosperity and economy constituted not only the keynote, but the alpha and omega of the president's address. He professed profound satisfaction with business conditions as they now exist, claimed credit for the Republican party in bringing them about, and forecast a continuation of them only if the government is conducted along lines already laid down.

Mr. Coolidge did more than merely review the accomplishments of the Republican administration. He went further and afforded an illuminating insight into what may be expected to be the major policies of his administration during the next four years if it is returned to power. Without once mentioning his political opponents or their policies by name, he definitely took several well directed slaps at the much-derided La Follette's advocacy of public ownership of railroads and utilities, and he answered John W. Davis' plea for greater American participation in European affairs, by stressing the prosperity that has come to the United States by following a policy of semi-isolation and independent action in foreign affairs.

shire Republican state convention, and he was selected by the Republican National committee to represent the party before the League of Women Voters at their New York convention.

Meetings in Other Cities.

Former Governor Davis will arrive here early tonight from Salem, where he and Congressman Frank Murphy, of Steubenville, will appear at another rally.

Through arrangements made by County Chairman C. E. Hamilton, of Lisbon, meetings will be held in four county towns—East Liverpool, Salem, Salineville and Wellsville—tonight, while an enthusiastic rally was held in East Palestine, Thursday evening, when Congressman Murphy and Probate Judge Lodge Riddle made addresses.

Percy Tetlow, formerly of Salem, but now of Columbus, former national statistican of the United Mine Workers of America, and Mrs. Ruth Moser Place will be the speakers at the Wellsville meeting.

Large Enrollment As Y. M. C. A. Study Classes Are Opened

Y. M. C. A. evening study classes opened on Thursday night, with large enrollments in the economics and English departments. Economics is being taught by Dr. J. O. Campbell and English by Brady Buchanan.

The commercial law class, taught by Attorney W. S. Foulks, will convene on Friday night at 7 o'clock. G. L. Brokaw will teach the class in American history, starting at 8 o'clock.

STRAIGHT-FROM-SHOULDER BLOWS BY EVANGELIST W. E. BIEDERWOLF

Nehemiah prayed to God. That is the place to address prayer.

What would not God do if the people who bear His name would permit the Holy Ghost to work through them.

What a great work the church ought to do in East Liverpool were the members possessed with the soul-stirring conception of spiritual values.

Indifference of His followers and their lack of concern for the souls of people about them broke the heart of Jesus Christ.

The world has the right to expect Christians to deliver the goods they advertise.

All persons, if Christians, should be a great spritiual locomotive, full of divine light and power and headed for heaven with a train load of souls behind.

It is as much the business of a church to save souls as it is for a pottery to turn out ware.

Why don't church members try to be "wings" and not "weights?"

Moody declared a knocking Christian never saved a solitary soul.

Shirking church members, the "highfalutin" ones, pray well, but do nothing towards winning souls. Lot of church members live in the 23rd Psalm, "Let me lie down" when what the Lord wants is for them to "get up."

Too many church members wear many pairs of "hold backs" to one pair of tugs."

When God finished making the Universe He made the rattlesnake and skunk and with what was left he made the "knocker."

Many church men, knocking, would be pall bearers before the patient passes out.

Not all the opposition to a revival comes from people on the outside of a church, the most of it comes from the inside.

Every church has its workers, shirkers and jerkers, the two latter often predominating.

Church members, who would sing their way to bliss, and let the devil go in in his own sweet way, will get bliss if they keep up their indifference long enough.

It is an awful thing to live in church and be indifferent.

God, some day in His own way, will speak to indifferent church members.

Some day an "Electro-Scoop" will fly from East Liverpool and land you in San Francisco three hours before you start.

Preachers are doing the best they can with the material they have on hand.

SHAVINGS AND SAWDUST FOUND IN DR. BIEDERWOLF'S TABERNACLE

The sermon of Dr. Biederwolf on Friday night will be on the subject "The Devil's Cup." The subject on Saturday night will be "What Is the Matter With East Liverpool?" The original subject for Saturday night was "If Christ Came to East Liverpool." Local conditions will be discussed in this discourse.

Religious magazines and periodicals the country over have been advised through Mrs. Martin of Pittsburgh of the work so far done in the East Liverpool revival. Much impressed by Dr. Biederwolf's preaching, Mrs. Martin returned to Pittsburgh on Friday, thus completing a week's stay here. She proposes coming back later in the campaign, however. Pittsburgh laymen, inquiring the nature of the start of the revival here, will also be given a report by Mrs. Martin which may portend for the Smoky City a similar movement.

Dr. Biederwolf, again voicing his appreciation of the work of the local press in giving publicity to the campaign, urged his hearers to send the Review-Tribune to their friends all over the country so that they too may have the benefit of the revival messages

"You can do this for $1 during the campaign and the paper will be mailed to the address which you give," he announced. "This is another way in which you can aid in the revival while at the same time exhibiting the civic pride you should show in the paper of your city that is so capably dispensing the news of this and other events."

To further deepen the spiritual tone of the revival two inside rooms will be erected within the tabernacle, one on the southside of the choir platform and the other on the northern end of it. Both will be utilized for prayer, the men meeting in one and the women in the other. Both these services will be held nightly at 7 o'clock before the beginning of the night program. The buildings will be erected by volunteers.

"Corps No. 2," made up of church members, was organized Thursday night following the sermon by Dr. Biederwolf. It will cooperate with "Corps No. 1" in doing personal work.

Campaign Manager James Heaton is a busy man these days. What with keeping in touch with every worker of the party from Dr. Biederwolf down, directing the constant work being done at the tabernacle, meeting delegations at the close of the night services, attending morning conferences of the staff, rushing to pottery meetings at noon and incidentally releasing a song or two at one or all of these gatherings, including the night session, to say nothing of a final word with his chief after the latter returns to his quarters at the Carl Faulk home on Sixth street, he manages to slumber without the aid of opiates.

Four Hanged

with setting up exercises of various sorts in his cell. Gambino was visibly affected. Frank, once a king of the Montreal underworld, went to pieces at the last moment. He was nearly in collapse. Serafini insisted his innocence to the last.

The executions took place in the Bordeaux prison.

Curious Flock To Scene

It might have been a county fair, not a quadruple execution that took place in Bordeaux prison, to judge from the crowds that flocked about the reservation, where they could hope to see nothing more than the stone-walls that are there every day.

The first of the curious to gather arrived between three and five o'clock in the morning. The traps, it had been reported, then would be sprung. Motorcycle constables permitted none to step near the prison. Inside the gates were 25 Provincial police, ready to cope with whatever disorder might arise.

After dawn thousands of persons either motored to and from or walked near the prison. The cycle police were unable to handle the mob and reserves were called from every station in the city that could spare them.

Commute One Death Sentence.

Searchlights that had whitened the sky all night, played on the crowds in the pre-dawn hours.

The cabinet, in sparing Valentino, also commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Leo Davis, who was to have been hanged at a later date. Valentino and Davis will be taken to St. Vincent de Paul prison. Last-minute statements made by the condemned men, in which they agreed that Valentino and Davis were mere tools in their hands, saved the two.

Of the $142,000 taken in the holdup, $100,000 never has been recovered.

One Slayer Once Detective.

Louis Morel, leader of the bandits, and once a Montreal detective, wrote two letters as the hour approached for the march to the gallows. One was addressed to his children, the other to the newspapers.

The prisoners received their final visits from relatives yesterday.

Tony Frank long has been recognized as an underworld leader in Montreal and Gambino was known as his lieutenant. Morel was a member of the Montreal detective force for many years and was one of the greatest athletes in Canada.

Only two of the condemned men were present when Cleroux was killed, testimony showed. They were Morel and Serafini, but Frank and Gambino had taken an important part in the plotting of the robbery, it was shown. Nieri, a seventh member of the gang, was also present when Cleroux was killed. He saved his own life by turning King's evidence.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A forward movement in the price of copper stocks featured the early trading in the stock market today.

Specialty stocks and motor shares also continued the rally, which has been in progress since Wednesday.

Oil stocks were fairly strong at a higher range. Bethlehem Steel staged a moderate comeback, advancing about one point at the opening, which represented a gain of 2½ points from the low of the week.

Money renewed at 2 per cent, industrial reports were generally favorable and the banking situation was shown to be better prepared for the financing of heavy industrial or speculative activities.

American Smelting at 79½, up 1½ points, was the leader of the copper stocks, but good demand was also seen for Anaconda, United States Smelters, Chile Copper, Cerro De Pasco, St. Joseph lead and other metal stocks, based on the prospect of the opening up of European markets for American red metal.

Maxwell Motor "A" stock went above 67 for a new 1924 high. Mack Trucks was up 1¼ at 100, Studebaker and Chandler were active at fractionally higher prices, and leading accessory company stocks, like Stewart Warner, made the best showing of the week to date. Baldwin General Electric and American Can, the most prominent industrial leaders, were in demand for short covering, and Cast Iron Pipe sold up two points at 114½ for the same reason.

Activity in the railroad stocks fell off after the first period, but New York Central held its market interest, and large blocks of the stock were sold at 108. Western oil stocks made the best showing in the petroleum group, trading in the California stocks being in the largest volume.

The cotton market was irregular, with prices down 50 points in October contracts. Grains were barely steady.

LUTHERANS DISCUSS THREE PLANS FOR MISSIONARY WORK EXPANSION

Recommend Purchase of Missionary Establishment in Shantung, College in India and Organization of Church in South America.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24—Three important projects looking to the expansion of its missionary work in foreign fields were submitted to the United Lutheran Church in America today for approval by its biennial convention in session here. They were contained in the report of the Lutheran Board of Foreign Missions and include the following recommendations:

To purchase from the Berlin Missionary Society of Germany its entire missionary establishment in Shantung, China for $185,500 and for its operation hereafter by the Lutheran Mission Board.

To build a Lutheran college in India for the use and advancement of all Protestant missions and churches in the Telugu area, to be known as the Andhra Christian College. The initial cost is estimated at $300,000. The Lutheran convention as asked to approve a project by the Mission Board to raise that sum for capital expenditure and endownment.

That the Board of Foreign Missions be authorized to co-operate with the La Platta Synod of the Lutheran Church is organizing a United Lutheran Church in South America on the same docturnal basis as the United Lutheran Church of North America.

The Shantung Mission, located in one of the most densely populated provinces of China, already has been taken over by the Lutheran Missionary Board under an agreement to pay the $185,000 for its transfer in ten annual installments. To carry on the work of this mission, the Board asks for a special appropriation of $60,000 a year. The mission is located in Kiachow, with its splendid port of Tsingtao, controlled by Germany before the world war, captured by Japan and eventually ceded by the Japanese to China. Lack of funds since the war has prevented the German Missionaries from going ahead in that field and the work there, says the mission board, is in danger of stagantion.

The Shantung Mission consisted of three main stations located in Tsingtao, Kiaochow and Tsimo. The properties include a theological seminary, hospital, girls' school and a chapel and primary school at each of the thirty-one out-stations. The mission has 1,000 communicants, their numbers having been decreased by the war. The German staff has been taken over by the American Lutherans and they plan to increase it by new workers from America, some of whom are ready to go out as soon as the station shall be taken over.

Golden Water Well Is Filled up Again At Imperial Palace

TOKYO.—The mystery concerning the sudden drying up of the Golden Water Well, in the compound of the Imperial Palace, has been cleared up.

The well dried up early in August for the first time since the establishment of the old Edo Castle on that site, and was thought by experts to have some sinister foreboding, as the phenomenon could not be explained. Just recently it suddenly became productive again and now has its usual flow of clear, extremely cold water.

The studden stoppage of its flow is accounted for now by the construction of another well in the palace compound.

Even this explanation, however, is not satisfactory to many, who think there is magic connected with the Golden Well. The latter is but fifty-five feet deep, while the new one has a depth of 300 feet. Therefore, some authorities think theer is no connection between the two and that the Golden Waater Well gets its supply from an entirely different source.

Fishing vessels of Denmark are being equipped with wireless outfits so that they may receive from shore directions as to their position.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

CARE OF THE HAIR

Go into almost any household and in the bathroom will be found a tooth brush and a tube of tooth paste for each of its members. The Dentist has educated the public to the dangers of neglecting the teeth. Neglect of the teeth causes them to decay; neglect of the hair causes its loss. The two are very similiar, but a tooth hurts while the scalp itches. When it does the disease is deep and scratching makes it deeper. Should it hurt instead of itch there would be fewer bald heads.
Scalp treatment for men and women. I treat each case individually. Compound all my own tonics according to the conditions. Consultation and advise free.

BIG MUSICAL COMEDY COMING

"Trial Honeymoon" Offering at Ceramic on Tuesday.

Coming to the Ceramic theatre next Tuesday evening is the new Jos. M. Gaites Musical comedy, "A Trial Honeymoon," with book, lyrics and music by Harold Orlob, composer of "Hitchy Koo" and "Listen Lester." This attraction has been the summer show at the La Salle theatre, Chicago, where it has enjoyed a successful run. Miss May Leslie, the veteran critic of that city, called "A Trial Honeymoon" quite the best play of its class to be housed at the La Salle in many seasons. And Miss Leslie knows what she is talking about when it comes to good and bad plays.

It is declared that "A Trial Honeymoon" fairly radiates with bright tunes, clever situations and snappy dialogue. It is a story of modern youth and there are no dull moments. "The Petting Party" song in this musical show is a sensational hit.

Gaites has given the show a lavish investiture and the cast fairly bristles with talent, all of it young and good looking.

Prominent in the ensemble are Winona Winter, Alice Hills, Genevieve McCormick, Bernice Speer, Julia Steger, John Hennings, Charles Silber, Arnold Gluck, Frank Gardner, Joseph McCallum and others, with a good looking and youthful feminine chorus.

In 30 years missionaries taught most of the Hawaiian population to read and write.

"The Sea Hawk" Cinema Feature at American Monday

Frank Llyod had an unusual experience while filming an important sea battle between a Moorish gallease and an English frigate off the Santa Catalina coast for his production of "The Sea Hawk," the big First National drama holding the attention at the American Theatre next Monday.

There are whales in the Pacific not far from the Catalina shores, and although Mr. Lloyd was too busy filming "The Sea Hawk" to be interested in even such big fish he had his experience with them just the same.

In one of the big scenes of the picture a Moorish gallease rams an English frigate. To avoid sinking both ships they had to be maneuvered with considerable care. Starting toward each other at an angle would permit them striking without injury to any of the several hundred people aboard.

The Moorish Gallease bumped into two large objects, seemingly sunken barges of big logs. Mr. Lloyd and several others hurried to the forward deck in time to find two mammoth whales heading away from the ship at a rapid rate, water spouting from their backs like miniature geysers. Mrs. Lloyd summoned his cameramen forward in hopes of adding an unusual scene to the picture, but before the cameras could be set up and focused the whales had submerged and passed from view.

Figures in Romance.

Valentine and Albert Yoder, brother of Homer had previously married sisters of the bride. They all live in Mark Center, west of Defiance.

POEMS THAT LIVE

October.

The month of carnival of all the year,
When Nature lets the mild earth go its way,
And spend whole seasons on a single day.
The springtime holds her white and purple dear;
October, lavish, flaunts them far and near;
The summer charily her reds doth lay
Like jewels on her costliest array;
October, scornful, burns them on a bier.
The winter hoards his pearls offrost in sign
Of kingdom; whiter pears than winter knew,
Or empress wore in Egypt's ancient line,
October feasting 'neath her dome of blue,
Drinks at a single draught, slow filtered through
Sunshiny air, as in a tingling vine!

— Helen Hunt Jackson.

Dad's Day Exercises.

DELAWARE.—Ohio Wesleyan students will hold their annual Dad's day festivities Saturday with the Otterbein-Wesleyan football game as the athletic attraction. Remembering that Otterbein held their championship 1922 team to a 13-0 score on its last appearance here, Ohio Wesleyan fans are expecting Coach Ditmer's eleven to furnish bountiful entertainment for the fond parents who are to be guests at the game.

The city of London was brightly illuminated in 1837 when the future Queen Victoria became of age.

Politics and Home Owners

THE man who owns his own home takes more interest in the kind of men who are chosen to make and administer our laws.

He wants men in public office who will respect his property—all property. Men who do not respect property rights are dangerous. If they should get into power they might take his home away from him without adequate compensation.

So he learns all he can about the candidates and votes for those who have sound ideas about property matters. The home owner is not a ballot slacker.

BIG MUSICAL COMEDY COMING

"Trial Honeymoon" Offering at Ceramic on Tuesday.

Coming to the Ceramic theatre next Tuesday evening is the new Jos. M. Gaites Musical comedy, "A Trial Honeymoon," with book, lyrics and music by Harold Orlob, composer of "Hitchy Koo" and "Listen Lester." This attraction has been the summer show at the La Salle theatre, Chicago, where it has enjoyed a successful run. Miss May Leslie, the veteran critic of that city, called "A Trial Honeymoon" quite the best play of its class to be housed at the La Salle in many seasons. And Miss Leslie knows what she is talking about when it comes to good and bad plays.

It is declared that "A Trial Honeymoon" fairly radiates with bright tunes, clever situations and snappy dialogue. It is a story of modern youth and there are no dull moments. "The Petting Party" song in this musical show is a sensational hit.

Gaites has given the show a lavish investiture and the cast fairly bristles with talent, all of it young and good looking.

Prominent in the ensemble are Winona Winter, Alice Hills, Genevieve McCormick, Bernice Speer, Julia Steger, John Hennings, Charles Silber, Arnold Gluck, Frank Gardner, Joseph McCallum and others, with a good looking and youthful feminine chorus.

In 30 years missionaries taught most of the Hawaiian population to read and write.

"The Sea Hawk" Cinema Feature at American Monday

Frank Llyod had an unusual experience while filming an important sea battle between a Moorish gallease and an English frigate off the Santa Catalina coast for his production of "The Sea Hawk," the big First National drama holding the attention at the American Theatre next Monday.

There are whales in the Pacific not far from the Catalina shores, and although Mr. Lloyd was too busy filming "The Sea Hawk" to be interested in even such big fish he had his experience with them just the same.

In one of the big scenes of the picture a Moorish gallease rams an English frigate. To avoid sinking both ships they had to be maneuvered with considerable care. Starting toward each other at an angle would permit them striking without injury to any of the several hundred people aboard.

The Moorish Gallease bumped into two large objects, seemingly sunken barges of big logs. Mr. Lloyd and several others hurried to the forward deck in time to find two mammoth whales heading away from the ship at a rapid rate, water spouting from their backs like miniature geysers. Mrs. Lloyd summoned his cameramen forward in hopes of adding an unusual scene to the picture, but before the cameras could be set up and focused the whales had submerged and passed from view.

Figures in Romance.

DEFIANCE.—Marriage of Homer Yoder and Miss Nancy Bontrager, daughter of John Bontrager, in Mark Center, was the culmination of a third romance between brothers and sisters of these two families. Valentine and Albert Yoder, brother of Homer had previously married sisters of the bride. They all live in Mark Center, west of Defiance.

Politics and Home Owners

THE man who owns his own home takes more interest in the kind of men who are chosen to make and administer our laws.

He wants men in public office who will respect his property—all property. Men who do not respect property rights are dangerous. If they should get into power they might take his home away from him without adequate compensation.

So he learns all he can about the candidates and votes for those who have sound ideas about property matters. The home owner is not a ballot slacker.

POEMS THAT LIVE

October.

The month of carnival of all the year,
When Nature lets the mild earth go its way,
And spend whole seasons on a single day.
The springtime holds her white and purple dear;
October, lavish, flaunts them far and near;
The summer charily her reds doth lay
Like jewels on her costliest array;
October, scornful, burns them on a bier.
The winter hoards his pearls offrost in sign
Of kingdom; whiter pears than winter knew,
Or empress wore in Egypt's ancient line,
October feasting 'neath her dome of blue,
Drinks at a single draught, slow filtered through
Sunshiny air, as in a tinglin̄ vine!

Dad's Day Exercises.

DELAWARE.—Ohio Wesleyan students will hold their annual Dad's day festivities Saturday with the Otterbein-Wesleyan football game as the athletic attraction. Remembering that Otterbein held their championship 1922 team to a 13-0 score on its last appearance here, Ohio Wesleyan fans are expecting Coach Ditmer's eleven to furnish bountiful entertainment for the fond parents who are to be guests at the game.

The city of London was brightly illuminated in 1837 when the future Queen Victoria became of age.

CARE OF THE HAIR

Go into almost any household and in the bathroom will be found a tooth brush and a tube of tooth paste for each of its members. The Dentist has educated the public to the dangers of neglecting the teeth. Neglect of the teeth causes them to decay; neglect of the hair causes its loss. The two are very similar, but a tooth hurts while the scalp itches. When it does the disease is deep and scratching makes it deeper. Should it hurt instead of itch there would be fewer bald heads.

Scalp treatment for men and women. I treat each case individually. Compound all my own tonics according to the conditions. Consultation and advise free.

CARE OF THE HAIR

Go into almost any household and in the bathroom will be found a tooth brush and a tube of tooth paste for each of its members. The Dentist has educated the public to the dangers of neglecting the teeth. Neglect of the teeth causes them to decay; neglect of the hair causes its loss. The two are very similar, but a tooth hurts while the scalp itches. When it does the disease is deep and scratching makes it deeper. Should it hurt instead of itch there would be fewer bald heads.

BIG MUSICAL COMEDY COMING

"Trial Honeymoon" Offering at Ceramic on Tuesday.

Coming to the Ceramic theatre next Tuesday evening is the new Jos. M. Gaites Musical comedy, "A Trial Honeymoon," with book, lyrics and music by Harold Orlob, composer of "Hitchy Koo" and "Listen Lester." This attraction has been the summer show at the La Salle theatre, Chicago, where it has enjoyed a successful run. Miss May Leslie, the veteran critic of that city, called "A Trial Honeymoon" quite the best play of its class to be housed at the La Salle in many seasons. And Miss Leslie knows what she is talking about when it comes to good and bad plays.

It is declared that "A Trial Honeymoon" fairly radiates with bright tunes, clever situations and snappy dialogue. It is a story of modern youth and there are no dull moments. "The Petting Party" song in this musical show is a sensational hit.

Gaites has given the show a lavish investiture and the cast fairly bristles with talent, all of it young and good looking.

Prominent in the ensemble are Winona Winter, Alice Hills, Genevieve McCormick, Bernice Speer, Julia Steger, John Hennings, Charles Silber, Arnold Gluck, Frank Cardner, Joseph McCallum and others, with a good looking and youthful feminine chorus.

In 30 years missionaries taught most of the Hawaiian population to read and write.

"The Sea Hawk" Cinema Feature at American Monday

Frank Llyod had an unusual experience while filming an important sea battle between a Moorish gallease and an English frigate off the Santa Catalina coast for his production of "The Sea Hawk," the big First National drama holding the attention at the American Theatre next Monday.

There are whales in the Pacific not far from the Catalina shores, and although Mr. Lloyd was too busy filming "The Sea Hawk" to be interested in even such big fish he had his experience with them just the same.

In one of the big scenes of the picture a Moorish gallease rams an English frigate. To avoid sinking both ships they had to be maneuvered with considerable care. Starting toward each other at an angle would permit them striking without injury to any of the several hundred people aboard.

The Moorish Gallease bumped into two large objects, seemingly sunken barges of big logs. Mr. Lloyd and several others hurried to the forward deck in time to find two mammoth whales heading away from the ship at a rapid rate, water spouting from their backs like miniature geysers. Mrs. Lloyd summoned his cameramen forward in hopes of adding an unusual scene to the picture, but before the cameras could be set up and focused the whales had submerged and passed from view.

Politics and Home Owners

THE man who owns his own home takes more interest in the kind of men who are chosen to make and administer our laws.

He wants men in public office who will respect his property—all property. Men who do not respect property rights are dangerous. If they should get into power they might take his home away from him without adequate compensation.

So he learns all he can about the candidates and votes for those who have sound ideas about property matters. The home owner is not a ballot slacker.

POEMS THAT LIVE

October.

The month of carnival of all the year,
When Nature lets the mild earth go its way,
And spend whole seasons on a single day.
The springtime holds her white and purple dear;
October, lavish, flaunts them far and near;
The summer charily her reds doth lay
Like jewels on her costliest array;
October, scornful, burns them on a bier.
The winter hoards his pearls offrost in sign
Of kingdom; whiter pears than winter knew,
Or empress wore in Egypt's ancient line,
October feasting 'neath her dome of blue,
Drinks at a single draught, slow filtered through
Sunshiny air, as in a tingling vine!

Woman Asks Alimony In Petition Filed By Her Attorney

Claiming that her husband, Neal Richardson, has been guilty of extreme cruelty, Florence Richardson, through her attorney, Ben L. Bennett, has filed an action in common pleas court for alimony.

The petition recites that the parties were married in Lisbon May 28, 1921. The petitioner also relates that Richardson has failed to provide his wife the necessaries of life, and that he owns and operates a grocery and filing station at Stop 55 on the Y. & O. railroad, and that he is possessed of real estate of the value of $7,000.

James W. Wood has filed an action for divorce from his wife, Ethel Wood, Attorney Bennett also representing the plaintiff. The couple were married August 18, 1923. The defendant is charged with gross neglect in that she has wholly disregarded her marital duties.

BIG G. O. P. MEET HERE TONIGHT

Arrangements have been perfected for the Republican Rally which will be held in Lisbon Friday night, the Lisbon Opera House having been secured for the event.

Judge Virgil Gibbs, attached to official staff of Attorney General C. C. Crabbe of Columbus, and Mrs. Ruth Moser Place of Michigan, together with John Bricker, special counsel in the office of Attorney General Crabbe, have been listed as speakers.

Cattle Being Shipped From This County To Woodstown, N. J.

Seven cars of registered cattle have been shipped from Columbiana county since June to Woodstown, N. J., and the end is not yet.

In addition to these shipments, the same buying interest has been loading carlots of horses out of Columbiana.

Palace-Arms cars are being used for the shipment of cattle, and the last shipment was out of East Rochester Wednesday, when Henry Steinsnyder loaded 30 head of cattle and 14 calves, all registered stock, divided among the Guernsey, Jersey and Holstein breeds.

At the receiving end the shipments are being looked after by Nathan Steinsnyder, who is in charge of ultimate sale of the stock.

This registered cattle is declared to be in heavy demand in the New Jersey farm section. It is considered likely that at least 10 more cars of registered, tuberculin free cattle will be shipped from this county to Jersey before the close of the year.

Cattle buying has been the forte of Steinsnyder for many years.

During the late war Steinsnyder was engaged by the federal government to purchase cattle, and as the war progressed he was loaned to the British government for the same purpose. He shipped boatload after boatload to England during the war, it being estimated that his shipments varied between 9,000 and 11,000 head. There was an average of 700 head loaded on each boat.

All shipping of horses has been done out of Columbiana, although stock has been purchased in Hanover, Knox, West and Butler townships and driven to Columbiana for loading. These shipments have also found a ready market in New Jersey.

World's Tonic Relieves Swollen Ankles

Lisbon St. Woman Tells Her Experience

Mrs. Margaret Reese, 807 Lisbon street, Wellsville, says: "Had lumbago. I could hardly straighten my back. My ankles were terribly swollen I was so nervous that I felt like flying to pieces. My stomach was out of order and my entire system was run down.

"After eating only a few bites of food my stomach would swell and bloat until it was as tight as a drum. Often I would get short of breath. My appetite dwindled away to about nothing.

"I tried many different kinds of remedies and treatments but nothing did me any good. Finally I tried World's onic which has a stimulating effect upon the digestive glands, and right away I could feel a great improvement.

"I feel like a different person now. I have a good appetite and I sleep as soundly as a log. I can eat anything my appetite craves and get away with it—no indigestion—no comeback.

"I am stronger than I have been for years. I'm not troubled with lumbago and the swelling in my ankles has gone away. I surely recommend World's Tonic. it makes me feel like I am growing younger instead of older."

Scarcely a day passes in which dozens do not voluntarily come forward with written statements indorsing World's Tonic in terms similar to the above. World's Tonic is an appetizer. To the nerves and glands it is a tonic; it cleanses and enriches the blood; it encourages kidney action and livens the liver. World's Tonic is made from concentrated herb juices.

Get World's Tonic at once at Carnahan's, 114 East Sixth street, East End, and C. N. Brannon's, Wellsville, and all other reliable druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

Cattle Being Shipped From This County To Woodstown, N. J.

Seven cars of registered cattle have been shipped from Columbiana county since June to Woodstown, N. J., and the end is not yet.

In addition to these shipments, the same buying interest has been loading carlots of horses out of Columbiana.

Palace-Arms cars are being used for the shipment of cattle, and the last shipment was out of East Rochester Wednesday, when Henry Steinsnyder loaded 30 head of cattle and 14 calves, all registered stock, divided among the Guernsey, Jersey and Holstein breeds.

At the receiving end the shipments are being looked after by Nathan Steinsnyder, who is in charge of ultimate sale of the stock.

This registered cattle is declared to be in heavy demand in the New Jersey farm section. It is considered likely that at least 10 more cars of registered, tuberculin free cattle will be shipped from this county to Jersey before the close of the year.

Cattle buying has been the forte of Steinsnyder for many years.

During the late war Steinsnyder was engaged by the federal government to purchase cattle, and as the war progressed he was loaned to the British government for the same purpose. He shipped boatload after boatload to England during the war, it being estimated that his shipments varied between 9,000 and 11,000 head. There was an average of 700 head loaded on each boat.

All shipping of horses has been done out of Columbiana, although stock has been purchased in Hanover, Knox, West and Butler townships and driven to Columbiana for loading. These shipments have also found a ready market in New Jersey.

World's Tonic Relieves Swollen Ankles

Lisbon St. Woman Tells Her Experience

Mrs. Margaret Reese, 807 Lisbon street, Wellsville, says: "Had lumbago. I could hardly straighten my back. My ankles were terribly swollen I was so nervous that I felt like flying to pieces. My stomach was out of order and my entire system was run down.

"After eating only a few bites of food my stomach would swell and bloat until it was as tight as a drum. Often I would get short of breath. My appetite dwindled away to about nothing.

"I tried many different kinds of remedies and treatments but nothing did me any good. Finally I tried World's onic which has a stimulating effect upon the digestive glands, and right away I could feel a great improvement.

"I feel like a different person now. I have a good appetite and I sleep as soundly as a log. I can eat anything my appetite craves and get away with it—no indigestion—no comeback.

"I am stronger than I have been for years. I'm not troubled with lumbago and the swelling in my ankles has gone away. I surely recommend World's Tonic. It makes me feel like I am growing younger instead of older."

Scarcely a day passes in which dozens do not voluntarily come forward with written statements indorsing World's Tonic in terms similar to the above. World's Tonic is an appetizer. To the nerves and glands it is a tonic; it cleanses and enriches the blood; it encourages kidney action and livens the liver. World's Tonic is made from concentrated herb juices.

Get World's Tonic at once at Carnahan's, 114 East Sixth street, East End, and C. N. Brannon's, Wellsville, and all other reliable druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND
BY DAISY DEAN

Winners of beauty contests do not always make good in pictures as it takes considerably more work than beauty to succeed in this as well as other lines, although beauty is a decided asset.

Occasionally a girl who comes to public notice as the winner of such a contest does make good in Filmland's strenuous world, and Gertrude Olmsted is one of the few.

It was in a contest in Chicago sponsored by the elks that Gertrude won first prize in 1921. Her home town, LaSalle, Ill., gave her a great send-off and she started for the west coast with high hopes. She was given her chance and proved that she had brains as well as beauty. Her first pictures were with Hoot Gibson and were titled, "Tipped Off," "The Driftin' Kid," "Kickaroo," "The Big Adventure," "Three in a Thousand," etc.

One of her first really important roles was with young Wesley Barry in "George Washington, Jr." She also had parts in "Cameo Kirby" and "Trilby." Her latest picture is an Emory Johnson production, "Life's Greatest Game." She has been mentioned for the role of "Tirzah," Ben Hur's sister, in the elaborate production of Lew Wallace's well known novel that is being filmed in Italy, but Metro officials would not confirm the report at present. Gertrude is described as a "willowly brunette," and it is said that her lovely eyes won her the beauty contest.

We have just been informed of a tragedy. We just published the most thrilling photo of Milton Sills with a duck of a mustache and now he has had to have it shaved off. A friend in the shape of the director of Sill's new picture, "As Man Desires," ordered it off.

Louise Fazenda is on location at Laguna where "The Light House by the Sea," is being filmed. She is planning on swimming and hiking when not at work on the picture. We suppose she has a book or two tucked away, too, for Louise is a great-reader. Rin-tin-tin, the wonder dog is another star in this picture, which sounds like a regular old-fashioned mellerdramer.

Rosemary Thelby recently moved out of her dressing room on the Universal lot to another at United Studios. At Universal she worked in "The Night Cap" and then in "Miss Vanity," which was adapted from "The Best in Life" for Mary Philbin. She will be one of the featured players in "Pandora La Croix." Rosemary played the part of an Apache in "The Red Lily."

Carl Miller, who made a very favorable impression in Charlie Chaplin's picture, "Woman of Paris," has a featured part in "The Dark Swan." Carl will also be seen in "The Lover of Camille" which was adapted from Sacha Guitry's "Deburau," starring Monte Blue.

Dick Talmadge, star and stunt man for Carlos Productions, is back on the lot after an accident that nearly cost him his life. Dick broke his neck while doing a stunt and even now has his collars made at the foundry. We are told that he expects to call in the plumbers in a few days and have it removed then he will be ready for work in "Stepping Lively," where he left off.

Ronald Colman has been engaged to play opposite Blanche Sweet in "The Sporting Venus," exterior scenes for which were filmed in England by Marshall Neilan with the aid of his wife, Miss Sweet and Lew Cody. Colman has become very popular since his work with Lillian Gish in "The White Sister" and in other pictures.

Fox notes just received are to the effect that:

Edmund Lowe, one of the newest Fox stars but already a favorite, has finished "Honor Among Men" and is starting, "The Brass Bowl," with Claire Adams as leading daly.

Shirley Mason is making "The Star Dust Trail" and has the popular Bryant Washburn as her hero.

Tom Mix is busy with "The Deadwood Coach," and Doris May is to be a passenger.

"Gerald Cranston's Lady," with James Kirkwood, Alma Rubens and Dorothy Mackaill in the cast is finished and is being cut and titled for showing.

Wanda Hawley is playing the lead opposite Buck Jones in "The Man Who Played Square," and scenes are being "shot" at Sonora, Cal.

To Open Detours.

NELSONVILLE.—The last of detours which have kept Athens county motorists literally "bottled up" in every direction all season will be abandoned before Christmas, when the Parkersburg route will be opened. Dixie Highway From Chicago to Florida Will Open Nov. 15

CHICAGO.—The Dixie Highway, Route A, from Chicago to Florida, will be opened officially November 15, according to Charles O'Connor, engineer in charge of construction.

The highway cuts throug the Mason-Dixon line and enables motorists to save approximately 1,000 miles of travel en route from Chicago to Florida.

The construction of the important connecting stretches of road through hitherto impassable mountain regions of the South is said to be the most extensive piece of co-operative highway construction and financing in the history of American roads. The funds for the construction in those counties which could not finance the road were raised by civic clubs in Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina, by a gasoline tax agreed to by owners of gasoline stations along the route of the highway, and by contributions from various civic and moter associations and individuals in the cities of Chicago, Detroit and Dayton.

Some of the South's most picturesque and historic points are reached and passed through by the highway, and Chicagoans and other Northerners along the route may now tour these places over improved roads that have been hitherto impassable mountain paths. Such places as the famous Blue Grass stock farms of Kentucky, spots made famous in the Revolutionary and Civil wars; the Vanderbuilt estates, where the handicraft in woodwork and textiles has attracted interest all over the world, and other features of the Cumberland and Blue Ridge mountain country.

Gray Hair

Bring Back the Original Color With This Clean, Colorless Liquid

There is no longer any need for people to let gray hair remain to make them look old. The discovery of the remarkable clean, colorless liquid known as Kolor-Bak has made grayness a thing of the past for people everywhere.

It seems almost unbelievable, but it has been proved over and over again that no matter what the former color of the hair was, Kolor-Bak will restore it. It also gives the hair a beautiful, natural gloss, renewed "life" and lustre, and makes it soft, beautiful, "young" again. The restored color is uniform—not streaked or faded looking—and is the true original shade.

Kolor-Bak is just a clean, colorless liquid which is a proved substitute for the natural pigmentation of the hair—as easy to use as water. Results often appear in a week.

Kolor-Bak is also a scalp and hair tonic because of its cleansing, stimulating qualities which aid Nature to bring about a normal condition of the hair.

No need to furnish samples of your hair. The one clean, colorless liquid is for all hair. Just ask for Kolor-Bak, use it according to directions and see how quickly it brings results. Kolor-Bak is sold with guarantee of money back if results are not satisfactory.

You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND
BY DAISY DEAN

Winners of beauty contests do not always make good in pictures as it takes considerably more work than beauty to succeed in this as well as other lines, although beauty is a decided asset.

Occasionally a girl who comes to public notice as the winner of such a contest does make good in Filmland's strenuous world, and Gertrude Olmsted is one of the few.

It was in a contest in Chicago sponsored by the elks that Gertrude won first prize in 1921. Her home town, LaSalle, Ill., gave her a great send-off and she started for the west coast with high hopes. She was given her chance and proved that she had brains as well as beauty. Her first pictures were with Hoot Gibson and were titled, "Tipped Off," "The Driftin' Kid," "Kickaroo," "The Big Adventure," "Three in a Thousand," etc.

One of her first really important roles was with young Wesley Barry in "George Washington, Jr." She also had parts in "Cameo Kirby" and "Trilby." Her latest picture is an Emory Johnson production, "Life's Greatest Game." She has been mentioned for the role of "Tirzah," Ben Hur's sister, in the elaborate production of Lew Wallace's well known novel that is being filmed in Italy, but Metro officials would not confirm the report at present. Gertrude is described as a "willowly brunette," and it is said that her lovely eyes won her the beauty contest.

We have just been informed of a tragedy. We just published the most thrilling photo of Milton Sills with a duck of a mustache and now he has had to have it shaved off. A friend in the shape of the director of Sill's new picture, "As Man Desires," ordered it off.

Louise Fazenda is on location at Laguna where "The Light House by the Sea," is being filmed. She is planning on swimming and hiking when not at work on the picture. We suppose she has a book or two tucked away, too, for Louise is a great reader. Rin-tin-tin, the wonder dog is another star in this picture, which sounds like a regular old-fashioned mellerdramer.

Rosemary Thelby recently moved out of her dressing room on the Universal lot to another at United Studios. At Universal she worked in "The Night Cap" and then in "Miss Vanity," which was adapted from "The Best in Life" for Mary Philbin. She will be one of the featured players in "Pandora La Croix." Rosemary played the part of an Apache in "The Red Lily."

Carl Miller, who made a very favorable impression in Charlie Chaplin's picture, "Woman of Paris," has a featured part in "The Dark Swan." Carl will also be seen in "The Lover of Camille" which was adapted from Sacha Guitry's "Deburau," starring Monte Blue.

Dick Talmadge, star and stunt man for Carlos Productions, is back on the lot after an accident that nearly cost him his life. Dick broke his neck while doing a stunt and even now has his collars made at the foundry. We are told that he expects to call 'n the plumbers in a few days and have it removed then he will be ready for work in "Stepping Lively," where he left off.

Ronald Colman has been engaged to play opposite Blanche Sweet in "The Sporting Venus," exterior scenes for which were filmed in England by Marshall Neilan with the aid of his wife, Miss Sweet and Lew Cody. Colman has become very popular since his work with Lillian Gish in "The White Sister" and in other pictures.

Fox notes just received are to the effect that:

Edmund Lowe, one of the newest Fox stars but already a favorite, has finished "Honor Among Men" and is starting, "The Brass Bowl," with Claire Adams as leading daly.

Shirley Mason is making "The Star Dust Trail" and has the popular Bryant Washburn as her hero.

Tom Mix is busy with "The Deadwood Coach," and Doris May is to be a passenger.

"Gerald Cranston's Lady," with James Kirkwood, Alma Rubens and Dorothy Mackaill in the cast is finished and is being cut and titled for showing.

To Open Detours.

NELSONVILLE.—The last of detours which have kept Athens county motorists literally "bottled up" in every direction all season will be abandoned before Christmas, when the Parkersburg route will be opened. In wet weather, detours in all roads leading from the county seat to the outside world—have been such that travel was out of the question here.

Ex-President Menocal Picked To Win in Cuban Elections

A former president, Mario Menocal (left), is expected to be the winner in the Cuban presidential election. His vice presidential running mate is Domingo Mendez Capote. They are the nominees of the Conservative party.

Dixie Highway From Chicago to Florida Will Open Nov. 15

CHICAGO.—The Dixie Highway, Route A, from Chicago to Florida, will be opened officially November 15, according to Charles O'Connor, engineer in charge of construction.

The highway cuts throug the Mason-Dixon line and enables motorists to save approximately 1,000 miles of travel en route from Chicago to Florida.

The construction of the important connecting stretches of road through hitherto impassable mountain regions of the South is said to be the most extensive piece of co-operative highway construction and financing in the history of American roads. BLADDER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES

A host of people who suffer with too frequent or painful urination, backaches, headaches, tired feeling, indigestion, insomnia, rheumatic twinges, etc., could be rid of their tortures almost overnight, by removing the real cause. For it has long been known that a remarkable oil formula perfected by a famous Holland chemist many years ago goes direct to the kidneys and bladder, and restores them to normal functioning often in 24 hours. The result is that all these symptoms, which are really caused by kidney poisons backing up into the system, vanish as if by magic.

Ask for RED MILL Haarlem Oil, which is the genuine oil imported direct from Holland, in tasteless capsules. Costs only 50c, and sold under an absolute money-back guarantee. Ask these druggists: C. G. Anderson, J. C. Carnahan, Gamble's Drug Store.

Total Registration is 975.

Approximately 20 Newell voters were registered for the election November 4 by Tim Robinson and W. C. Miller, registrars for Grant district precinct No. 5 Monday and Tuesday of this week. This brings the total in Newell to about 975.

The books have been sent to the Hancock county court for certification.

Juniors Are Victors.

Can't let constipation make you an invalid —relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Few people realize how dangerous is constipation until this dread disease tears down their health. Did you know that more than forty serious diseases can be traced to constipation?

Keep your health, or restore it, with Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. It brings relief in mild and chronic cases of constipation. It is effective because it is ALL bran. That is why it is recommended so highly by doctors. They know that only ALL bran can bring 100 per cent results. Part bran is, at best, only a halfway measure.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief—even in the most chronic case. It is guaranteed to do so. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Because it is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. Like nature, it acts naturally. It makes the intestine function regularly.

Eat it every day—two tablespoonfuls—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Enjoy it in those wonderful recipes given on every package.

The flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is delicious. It is crisp, nut-like. Quite different from ordinary brans, which are so unpalatable. Kellogg's Bran is made in Battle Creek and served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Sold by all grocers.

A. F. STOSSMEISTER, JEWELER, OWNS COIN CAST ABOUT 1,800 YEARS AGO

Valuable Piece of Silver Found Not Far Distant From Mound Near Marietta.

A. F. Stossmeister, 736 Lincoln avenue, watchmaker at the Rubin Jewelry store, is in possession of a coin, which government experts believe to have been cast almost 1,800 years ago.

The coin, given to him by his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Stossmeister, was found near Marietta, Ohio, about 30 years ago. Mrs. Stossmeister picked it up not far distant from what is believed to have been a mound, built centuries ago.

Stossmeister recently wrote to T. T. Belote, curator of history, Smithsonian Institute, United States Museum, at Washington, describing the coin and enclosing moulds of both sides of the piece. In a reply, which has just been received, the coin is declared to be that of Vologases 11, King of Parthia and to have been cast about 140 A. D., 1786 years ago. No estimate as to its probable worth of the coin was given by the museum expert, but its owner believes its value to be well into the hundreds, if not, thousands of dollars.

The coin, which appears to be of silver, is well preserved, a little larger than a dime and slightly oblong in form.

J. C. Rayl is manager of the agency.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Something Must Be Done and Done Darn Quick, Too.

Tens of thousands of thin, rundown men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh producing vitamines, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste, and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are as easy to take as candy, and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will give you your money back—and only 60 cents a box. Ask Anderson, Flick, Larkin and Carnahan or any live pharmacist anywhere.

Don't let constipation make you an invalid —relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Few people realize how dangerous is constipation until this dread disease tears down their health. Did you know that more than forty serious diseases can be traced to constipation?

Keep your health, or restore it, with Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. It brings relief in mild and chronic cases of constipation. It is effective because it is ALL bran. That is why it is recommended so highly by doctors. They know that only ALL bran can bring 100 per cent results. Part bran is, at best, only a halfway measure.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief—even in the most chronic case. It is guaranteed to do so. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Because it is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. Like nature, it acts naturally. It makes the intestine function regularly.

Eat it every day—two tablespoonfuls—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Enjoy it in those wonderful recipes given on every package.

The flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is delicious. It is crisp, nut-like. Quite different from ordinary brans, which are so unpalatable. Kellogg's Bran is made in Battle Creek and served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Sold by all grocers.

A. F. STOSSMEISTER, JEWELER, OWNS COIN CAST ABOUT 1,800 YEARS AGO

Valuable Piece of Silver Found Not Far Distant From Mound Near Marietta.

A. F. Stossmeister, 736 Lincoln avenue, watchmaker at the Rubin Jewelry store, is in possession of a coin, which government experts believe to have been cast almost 1,800 years ago.

The coin, given to him by his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Stossmeister, was found near Marietta, Ohio, about 30 years ago. Mrs. Stossmeister picked it up not far distant from what is believed to have been a mound, built centuries ago.

Stossmeister recently wrote to T. T. Belote, curator of history, Smithsonian Institute, United States Museum, at Washington, describing the coin and enclosing moulds of both sides of the piece. In a reply, which has just been received, the coin is declared to be that of Vologases 11, King of Parthia and to have been cast about 140 A. D., 1786 years ago. No estimate as to its probable worth of the coin was given by the museum expert, but its owner believes its value to be well into the hundreds, if not, thousands of dollars.

The coin, which appears to be of silver, is well preserved, a little larger than a dime and slightly oblong in form.

What Your American Red Cross Does

Carries on Work of Vital Importance to American People

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS, since the war, has been offered boundless opportunities for service. With thousands of disabled ex-service men still in hospitals, with disasters occurring almost weekly, with hundreds of thousands dying yearly through preventable disease, through accident, through lack of knowledge of the simplest rules of hygiene and health, the need is greater than ever before.

The Red Cross meets this need through a group of unified services, to carry on which it is chartered by Congress. This peace-time work is less spectacular than the war work. Much of it, the public health work in particular, is less interesting generally, except to those who directly benefit by it. For it is no easy matter to interest a healthy person in health. Yet it is a work that is of vital importance to the American people. America could no more do without the Red Cross in peace than it could have done without it in war.

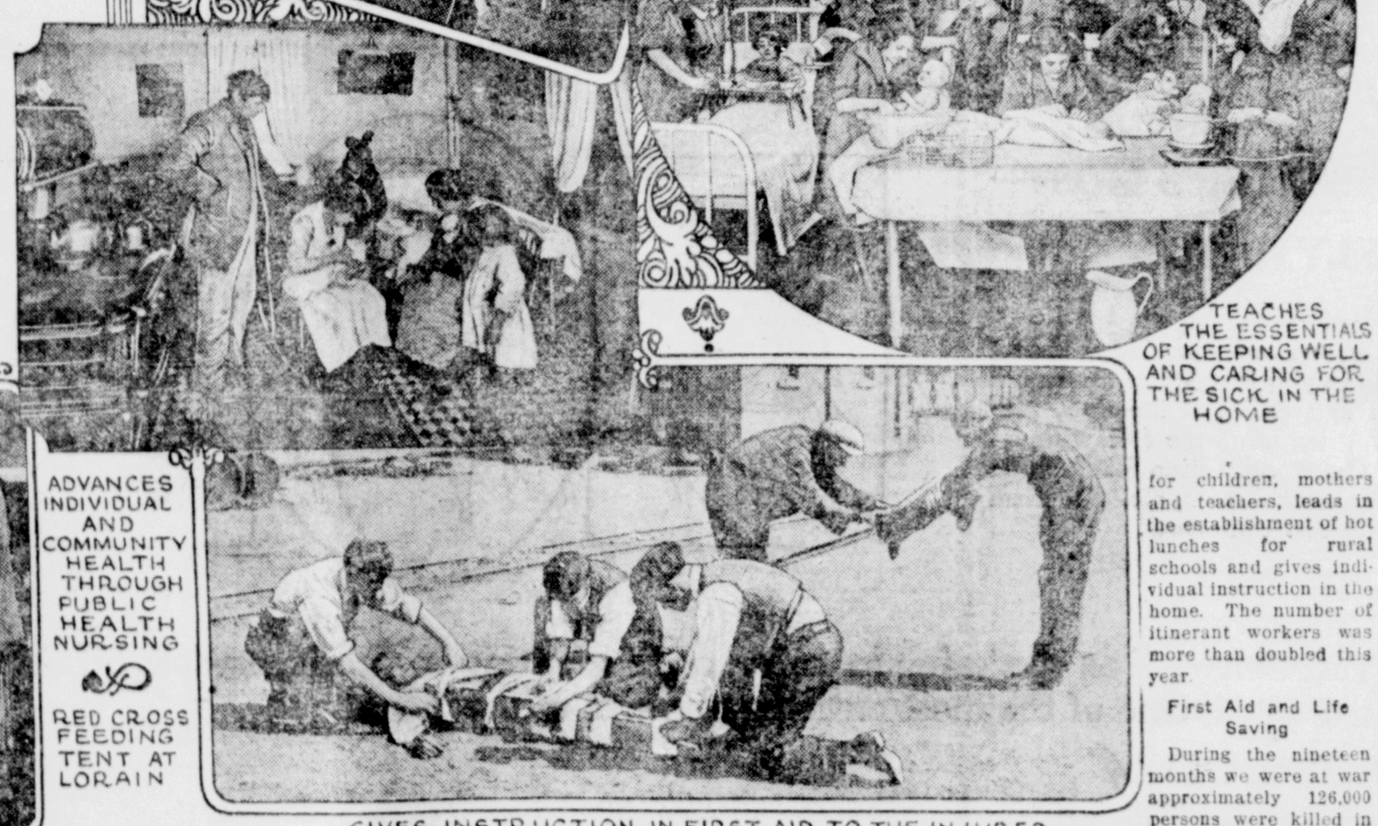
MOBILIZES VOLUNTEER WORKERS FOR MANY FORMS OF SERVICE

INSTILLS IDEALS OF UNSELFISH SERVICE IN THE HEARTS AND MINDS OF YOUTH

MAINTAINS A RESERVE OF NURSES FOR THE ARMY AND NAVY NURSE CORPS AND FOR DUTY IN EMERGENCY

TRAINS SWIMMERS IN EFFECTIVE METHODS OF WATER LIFE SAVING

SUPPLEMENTS GOVERNMENT SERVICE TO DISABLED WORLD WAR VETERANS



TEACHES THE ESSENTIALS OF KEEPING WELL AND CARING FOR THE SICK IN THE HOME

ADVANCES INDIVIDUAL AND COMMUNITY HEALTH THROUGH PUBLIC HEALTH NURSING

RED CROSS FEEDING TENT AT LORAIN

GIVES INSTRUCTION IN FIRST AID TO THE INJURED

With Service and Ex-Service Men

Service to the disabled veterans of the World War continues as the first obligation of the Red Cross. Since the Armistice it has expended $50,000,000 for services to these men and to men of the Army and Navy. It is now assisting more than 100,000 disabled veterans and their families each month. To 180,000 soldiers, sailors and marines on active duty it is giving the same help it gave during the war. There are today more than twenty-five hundred Red Cross Chapters, in all parts of the country, that are carrying on soldier work.

With the Army and Navy, the Red Cross has continued to act as a medium of communication between the enlisted man and his family at home. Field Directors are maintained at all stations, camps, and hospitals, supplementing the welfare of the men, providing entertainment and recreation for convalescents, and keeping the families advised of their condition. Occupational therapy has been continued at nine Naval hospitals.

The Nursing Service

At the request of the Government the Red Cross holds the reserve out of which are recruited the Army and Navy Nursing Corps, both in time of war and in some sudden emergency of peace. During the war it assembled, equipped and assigned 19,877 nurses to active service with our Armies and Navy. Today there are 41,000 qualified nurses enrolled in this reserve.

Disaster Relief

The far-reaching organization of the Red Cross, with its thousands of chapters and branches, forming a close network over the entire country, is well fitted to bring prompt aid when the lightning stroke of disaster flashes down upon a peaceful community, killing hundreds, rendering thousands homeless and destitute. Into such a scene of despair and hopelessness the Red Cross brings food and clothing, medicine, tents for shelter, blankets and all kinds of supplies. Equipped with trained workers, with stores of relief supplies located at strategic points throughout the country, the resources of the entire organization can be brought to bear within a few hours upon the most remote hamlet.

Nor do the workers go until the work is finished. In the tornado which devastated Lorain, Ohio, last June, more than 7,000 persons were left homeless. The Red Cross is still working for the rehabilitation of these people.

During the first half of 1924 the Red Cross gave assistance in more disasters than during any similar period in its history. This year the flood in China brought an immediate response from the Red Cross treasury. Disaster Relief has been and must continue to be one of the most important of Red Cross activities.

Public Health Nursing

The Red Cross has appointed public health nurses in many communities which desired such service.

The public health nurse is the guardian of the health of all those in her neighborhood. She inspects the school children for physical defects, organizes classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, in Food Selection and First Aid, so that the women and girls may be better fitted to maintain the health of their families, and to care for members of their households in time of minor illnesses. She tells expectant mothers how to take care of themselves, so that the mortality from childbirth may be reduced. Today almost a thousand Red Cross nurses in their picturesque uniforms and small cars are carrying the chance to live, the message of health, and the good will of the Red Cross to people of mining communities, bleak and wind-swept mountain plateaus, and lonely rural settlements throughout the United States and her possessions.

Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick

The course in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick which the Red Cross is offering to women and girls throughout the country has two aims. The first is to teach the elementary principles of nursing, so that in war or pestilence, when there is a shortage of professional nurses, there may be a sufficient supply of volunteers available. The second is to assist in checking mortality by the intelligent care of babies and children, and to further public health and efficiency by for children, mothers and teachers, leads in the establishment of hot lunches for rural schools and gives individual instruction in the home. The number of itinerant workers was more than doubled this year.

First Aid and Life Saving

During the nineteen months we were at war approximately 126,000 persons were killed in America by accidents—almost three times the number of Americans killed in the war—and more than 2,000,000 were so seriously injured that each lost over four weeks' time or was permanently maimed. These startling statistics call for a widespread and far-searching remedy. The Red Cross aims to supply the remedy by instruction in First Aid and Accident prevention.

During the past ten years First Aid representatives of the Red Cross have covered nearly the entire country—traveling altogether something over half a million miles. During that time 500,000 persons have had First Aid instruction among railroad employees alone. Last year 14,500 persons completed the course, and 135,000 were reached with demonstrations by the First Aid Car.

Red Cross experience shows that the accident rate among men in industry who have had First Aid instruction is 75 per cent less than among the uninstructed. Red Cross Chapters throughout the country are prepared to assist groups of people anywhere in taking the course.

An organization devoted to lifesaving at the various waterfronts and resorts was inaugurated in 1914. This is the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps, which has trained more than 49,000 men, women and youths to rescue and revive the drowning. These volunteers are instructed and organized into corps by the expert lifesavers on the Red Cross staff.

The Chapters

During the year volunteer workers have produced 150,000 garments, 1,000,000 surgical dressings and 87,000 pages of Braille. They have made 15,000 motor calls and fed 22,000 persons in canteen service. In 500 communities the Red Cross Chapter is the only family welfare agency.

Junior Red Cross

Organized in 1917 the American Junior Red Cross has today 5,452,745 children enrolled in public, private and parochial schools. Born as a war movement to provide suitable channels of American Red Cross relief work for American children, it is now in close touch with the children of forty other countries, creating bonds of mutual friendship and understanding.

When the Armistice was signed the Red Cross mustered these children into an army of peace, whose ideal should be one of service to others. Today juniors are identified with their seniors in health class instruction, in disaster relief work, in salvage and in other service.

The Juniors pay no membership fee, but every child must have earned the right to wear the Junior button, "I Serve," by one or more of three ways—performance of a significant service for the school, the community or the local Red Cross Chapter; participation in school enterprises by which a Junior Red Cross Service Fund is raised; contribution to the Junior Red Cross Service Fund from money earned by personal service or personal sacrifice.

Carrying out its slogan of "Happy childhood the world over," the American Junior Red Cross has become acquainted, through a system of international school correspondence, with the children of other nations.

Foreign Operations

While the Red Cross work is largely carried on at home, it has in recent years rendered important assistance during times of disaster in the following countries: France, Belgium, Italy, Austria, Germany, Hungary, Poland, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Roumania, Bulgaria, Albania, Greece, Turkey, Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Russia, Siberia, Japan, China, Chile, Ecuador, Colombia and Costa Rica.

The position of the Red Cross among American institutions is unique in that, while certain duties have been placed upon it by Congress, it is at the same time a volunteer organization. Its membership is a voluntary membership; its work is carried on by voluntary contributions and membership dues. The amount of work that it can accomplish, therefore, is directly measured by the amount of support which the American people give it.

During the Eighth Annual Roll Call, from November 11th to 27th, the Red Cross offers the people an opportunity to reaffirm their faith in the ideal of service for which it stands—to pay their membership dues and become a part of the organization for the coming year. If you—one person in millions—fail to join, it may seem a little thing. But the Red Cross is your Red Cross—you are a part of it; and if you fail to join, by just so much the Red Cross fails of its high purpose.

The Red Cross has kept faith with you. Join during the Roll Call, and keep faith with the Red Cross.

What Your American Red Cross Does

Carries on Work of Vital Importance to American People

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS, since the war, has been offered boundless opportunities for service. With thousands of disabled ex-service men still in hospitals, with disasters occurring almost weekly, with hundreds of thousands dying yearly through preventable disease, through accident, through lack of knowledge of the simplest rules of hygiene and health, the need is greater than ever before.

The Red Cross meets this need through a group of unified services, to carry on which it is chartered by Congress. This peace-time work is less spectacular than the war work. Much of it, the public health work in particular, is less interesting generally, except to those who directly benefit by it. For it is no easy matter to interest a healthy person in health. Yet it is a work that is of vital importance to the American people. America could no more do without the Red Cross in peace than it could have done without it in war.

With Service and Ex-Service Men

Service to the disabled veterans of the World War continues as the first obligation of the Red Cross. Since the Armistice it has expended $50,000,000 for services to these men and to men of the Army and Navy. It is now assisting more than 100,000 disabled veterans and their families each month. To 180,000 soldiers, sailors and marines on active duty it is giving the same help it gave during the war. There are today more than twenty-five hundred Red Cross Chapters, in all parts of the country, that are carrying on soldier work.

With the Army and Navy, the Red Cross has continued to act as a medium of communication between the enlisted man and his family at home. Field Directors are maintained at all stations, camps, and hospitals, supplementing the welfare of the men, providing entertainment and recreation for convalescents, and keeping the families advised of their condition. Occupational therapy has been continued at nine Naval hospitals.

The Nursing Service

At the request of the Government the Red Cross holds the reserve out of which are recruited the Army and Navy Nursing Corps, both in time of war and in some sudden emergency of peace. During the war it assembled, equipped and assigned 19,877 nurses to active service with our Armies and Navy. Today there are 41,000 qualified nurses enrolled in this reserve.

Disaster Relief

The far-reaching organization of the Red Cross, with its thousands of chapters and branches, forming a close network over the entire country, is well fitted to bring prompt aid when the lightning stroke of disaster flashes down upon a peaceful community, killing hundreds, rendering thousands homeless and destitute. Into such a scene of despair and hopelessness the Red Cross brings food and clothing, medicine, tents for shelter, blankets and all kinds of supplies. Equipped with trained workers, with stores of relief supplies located at strategic points throughout the country, the resources of the entire organization can be brought to bear within a few hours upon the most remote hamlet.

Nor do the workers go until the work is finished. In the tornado which devastated Lorain, Ohio, last June, more than 7,000 persons were left homeless. The Red Cross is still working for the rehabilitation of these people.

During the first half of 1924 the Red Cross gave assistance in more disasters than during any similar period in its history. This year the flood in China brought an immediate response from the Red Cross treasury. Disaster Relief has been and must continue to be one of the most important of Red Cross activities.

Public Health Nursing

The Red Cross has appointed public health nurses in many communities which desired such service.

The public health nurse is the guardian of the health of all those in her neighborhood. She inspects the school children for physical defects, organizes classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, in Food Selection and First Aid, so that the women and girls may be better fitted to maintain the health of their families, and to care for members of their households in time of minor illnesses. She tells expectant mothers how to take care of themselves, so that the mortality from childbirth may be reduced. Today almost a thousand Red Cross nurses in their picturesque uniforms and small cars are carrying the chance to live, the message of health, and the good will of the Red Cross to people of mining communities, bleak and wind-swept mountain plateaus, and lonely rural settlements throughout the United States and her possessions.

Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick

The course in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick which the Red Cross is offering to women and girls throughout the country has two aims. The first is to teach the elementary principles of nursing, so that in war or pestilence, when there is a shortage of professional nurses, there may be a sufficient supply of volunteers available. The second is to assist in checking mortality by the intelligent care of babies and children, and to further adult health and efficiency by teaching the simple rules of personal hygiene and household sanitation.

Nutrition Service

The Nutrition Service of the Red Cross meets the modern demand for a proper understanding of food values and their relation to community health. During the year 2,700 dietitians have been enrolled to help carry on the nutrition program.

The outstanding accomplishment of the Nutrition Service this year has been the further development and improvement of methods, material and organization necessary for establishing and carrying on nutrition programs under the itinerant worker. This worker is with each Red Cross Chapter for a three or four-month period during which time she organizes a Nutrition committee of chapter men and women, conducts classes for children, mothers and teachers, leads in the establishment of hot lunches for rural schools and gives individual instruction in the home. The number of itinerant workers was more than doubled this year.

First Aid and Life Saving

During the nineteen months we were at war approximately 126,000 persons were killed in America by accidents—almost three times the number of Americans killed in the war—and more than 2,000,000 were so seriously injured that each lost over four weeks' time or was permanently maimed. These startling statistics call for a widespread and far-searching remedy. The Red Cross aims to supply the remedy by instruction in First Aid and Accident prevention.

During the past ten years First Aid representatives of the Red Cross have covered nearly the entire country—traveling altogether something over half a million miles. During that time 500,000 persons have had First Aid instruction among railroad employees alone. Last year 14,500 persons completed the course, and 135,000 were reached with demonstrations by the First Aid Car.

Red Cross experience shows that the accident rate among men in industry who have had First Aid instruction is 75 per cent less than among the uninstructed. Red Cross Chapters throughout the country are prepared to assist groups of people anywhere in taking the course.

An organization devoted to lifesaving at the various waterfronts and resorts was inaugurated in 1914. This is the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps, which has trained more than 49,000 men, women and youths to rescue and revive the drowning. These volunteers are instructed and organized into corps by the expert lifesavers on the Red Cross staff.

The Chapters

During the year volunteer workers have produced 150,000 garments, 1,000,000 surgical dressings and 87,000 pages of Braille. They have made 15,000 motor calls and fed 22,000 persons in canteen service. In 500 communities the Red Cross Chapter is the only family welfare agency.

Junior Red Cross

Organized in 1917 the American Junior Red Cross has today 5,452,745 children enrolled in public, private and parochial schools. Born as a war movement to provide suitable channels of American Red Cross relief work for American children, it is now in close touch with the children of forty other countries, creating bonds of mutual friendship and understanding.

When the Armistice was signed the Red Cross mustered these children into an army of peace, whose ideal should be one of service to others. Today juniors are identified with their seniors in health class instruction, in disaster relief work, in salvage and in other service.

The Juniors pay no membership fee, but every child must have earned the right to wear the Junior button, "I Serve," by one or more of three ways—performance of a significant service for the school, the community or the local Red Cross Chapter; participation in school enterprises by which a Junior Red Cross Service Fund is raised; contribution to the Junior Red Cross Service Fund from money earned by personal service or personal sacrifice.

Carrying out its slogan of "Happy childhood the world over," the American Junior Red Cross has become acquainted, through a system of international school correspondence, with the children of other nations.

While the Red Cross work is largely carried on at home, it has in recent years rendered important assistance during times of disaster in the following countries: France, Belgium, Italy, Austria, Germany, Hungary, Poland, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Roumania, Bulgaria, Albania, Greece, Turkey, Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Russia, Siberia, Japan, China, Chile, Ecuador, Colombia and Costa Rica.

But the Red Cross is your Red Cross—you are a part of it; and if you fail to join, by just so much the Red Cross fails of its high purpose.

The Red Cross has kept faith with you. Join during the Roll Call, and keep faith with the Red Cross.

Christians Should Deliver The Goods They Advertise, Declares Evangelist Biederwolf

"You Don't go to Carpenter Shop to Get Haircut Nor to Shoe Store for Milk; You Know What to Expect in Both Places," he Says.

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, in his tabernacle sermon Thursday evening, said:

Neh. 4, 6, "And so we built the wall."

Nehemiah was having a great time in the palace of old King Cyrus, but sad news had reached him concerning Jerusalem, the city of his fathers. The walls were thrown down and the gates were burned and his brethren there were in great distress. And Nehemiah said, "I prayed to the God of Heaven." That's a good place, by the way, to direct your prayers. A fellow got up in Boston some time ago to pray, and he went through a fine recitation, and the next morning the newspaper said "The Rev. So and So delivered the finest prayer ever addressed to a Boston audience."

But Nehemiah meant business, and he asked God to let him go and build again the walls of Jerusalem. And God always honors the prayer of faith and so he moved the heart of the old heathen monarch to let him go.

I don't think there is any finer picture in all history than that of this old hero of Faith, with his little band of chosen followers, riding around the dilapidated walls of Zion's once glorious city, under the star-lit skies of Judah, halting now and then in the shadow of some palm or olive tree, surveying the ruins, contemplating the task he had come to perform, thinking of the opposition he knew he was bound to encounter, and then breathing a prayer to the God of Heaven, ride on and enter the city.

I sometimes think we overlook the principal character on that midnight ride; for God was with Nehemiah and God encouraged him and strengthened his heart and sent him into the city with a resolution that no kind or amount of opposition could unsettle.

Enemies Got Busy.

But Nehemiah had no sooner started work on the wall than the enemy got busy. And like Remus at the walls of Rome they began to ridicule him. "Why," they said, "Nehemiah, what are you trying to do? Do you think you can build a wall that can keep us back? Why, a fox could go up and break down your puny little wall." But Nehemiah was not there to be bluffed, and so the trowels kept up their music.

Then they thought they could lick the old Jew in a pitched battle, but Nehemiah had them hanging over the the ropes in the first round. Then they thought they would put one over on him. They would try a little strategy, and they said, "Well, Nehemiah, it's too bad for two parties both of whom are doubtless well-intending to have any misunderstanding; suppose we meet down here in one of the villages in the plains of Ono and talk it all over." But Nehemiah said, "They thought to do me mischief." Nehemiah was there to build that wall. He got his permission from God and he proposed to carry it out in spite of all that hell could do to stop him.

I like to see a man who is determined. Like the colored fellow who was up in the field standing under a big tree during a lightning storm, and the lightning struck the tree. About two seconds later the darkey was pulling himself together about 30 feet away from the tree, and he rolled his big white eyes around as he got up from the ground, and he walked back to the tree and threw his shoulders against it and said, "I is gwine to stand here." My, what could the church not do if it had a determination like that born of the Holy Ghost.

And Nehemiah said to the heathen, "I am doing a great work, and why should I leave the work and come down to you?" And, oh men and women, think what a great work the church of the living God has got to do in East Liverpool, and what the individual Christian needs is a soul-stirring conception of the relative importance of this work as compared with anything else that could possibly engage your time and your attention. But, alas, instead of being on the wall with sword and trowel in hand all too many of the East Liverpool church members are down in the plains of Ono making compromise with the world, the flesh and the Devil. And that's the point of this whole sermon, because Nehemiah's troubles did not all come from the outside; in fact the most of them came from the inside, from the members of his own crowd.

Somebody has said that the members of any kind of an organization can be divided into three classes, workers, shirkers and jerkers. And I am sure that this is true of the church. It reminds me of the very old story of the stage coach that used to wait at the station for the train to come in. Along the top was printed, "First, Second and Third Class Passengers — 15, 10 and 5 cents." But when the passengers got in they found the accommodations were all just alike and they began to complain and ask the driver why it was. He shouted down, "Just keep your seats and you'll find out after while." And finally as the lumbering old thing rolled down the dusty road they came to the foot, the bottom of a steep hill and the stage coach stopped, the driver shouted down, "First-class passengers, please keep their seats; second-class passengers will get out and walk; third-class passengers will get out and push." And that was the difference. And do you know, we have all got too many first-class passengers in the house of God, members who are just riding along and causing the chariot of the Lord to go heavy by reason of their weight; and we've got all too many second-class passengers—members who are just watching the thing go—the do nothings; and what we need is more of the third-class kind that will get down and put their heart and shoulder to the wheels of the kingdom of God and do their bit in shoving it along..

Can't Understand Church Men.

I never could understand some church members. You seem to think because God has saved your own soul that you've nothing to do but to sit down and fold your hands and let the rest of the world go to the Devil in its own sweet way. You seem to think that all you've got to do is just to sit down and sing yourself away into everlasting bliss. Well, you keep that sort of a thing up long enough, and as a friend of mine says, "You'll get blis-tered all right enough before you get through."

I. Now Nehemiah had all three classes in his crowd. He had his jerkers. In chapter four it says that certain of the Jews came to him ten times in one day and began to whine out their miserable "can't." You can't do it, Nehemiah; the enemy will certainly overpower you; it is a hopeless undertaking; you'd better give it up; it can't be done.

And so in the church we have our jerkers, our proverbial wet-blanket throwers, our faultfinders. This is the discouraging thing about church work. It takes a strong pull, and a long pull and a pull all together to make things go as they ought, but it's mighty discouraging work for the lead horses when the wheel horse lay back on the breechbands and sometimes balk altogether. The trouble with a lot of your church members in East Liverpool is that you wear out a dozen pair of hold-backs to one pair of tugs. You are like the boy on the football team. Mrs. Flannigan said to Mrs. Finnigan:

"They tell me your son has got a position on the college football team."

"Yes, indeed," said the proud mother.

"Well," said Mrs. Flannigan, "what position is it that your son plays?"

"Sure, and I don't know," said Mrs. Finnigan, "but I think he is one of the drawbacks."

Fools Can Find Fault.

It doesn't take any brains to find fault. Any fool can do that. Some people find fault with everything. Somebody has said that when God was making the universe He finished up with the rattlesnake, the vampire, the toad and the skunk, and then He had some awful substance left and he didn't know what to do with it, and He made a Knocker out of it. No man has a right to be a knocker as long as there is a pool of water big enough to drown himself in. Judas Iscariot was a knocker, but he was gentleman enough to go out and hang himself.

Some people find fault with everything. They find fault because I preach without a vest; but God promised me when I began to burn out my life for Christ and His gospel that I could be comfortable while I was doing it, and if you think that I am going to get into a straight-jacket or put on a corset to please your fastidious taste, why, you've got another "think coming, that's all."

You find fault about my grammar and complain that I say "git" for "get." But bless your little soul I used to teach grammar. They find fault with the way this tabernacle is built and they couldn't build a respectable chicken coop to save their necks. They find fault with the singing, and they don't know any more about music than a backyard feline knows about Handel's Messiah or the Hallelujah Chorus.

Some Deplore Everything.

But you know there are some folks whose chief concern it seems to be is to deplore the state of things in general and to be everlastingly opposed to what the pastor and the majority want to do. Instead of their prayer book they have always got out their hammer. They are always ready to offer their services as a pallbearer before the patient is quite dead.

Like a Scotchman who wanted to be an elder, and they said to him.

"If you want to be an elder, what can you do? Can you lead the prayer meeting?

"No, he said he didn't think he would make a good hand at that.

"Well," they said, "can you lead in prayer?"

"No," he said he never was very much of a hand to lead in prayer in public. "Well," they said, "if you want to be an elder, what can you do? Can you visit the sick?

"N," he said he was never very good at that.

But when the passengers got in they found the accommodations were all just alike and they began to complain and ask the driver why it was. He shouted down, "Just keep your seats and you'll find out after while." And finally as the lumbering old thing rolled down the dusty road they came to the foot, the bottom of a steep hill and the stage coach stopped, the driver shouted down, "First-class passengers, please keep their seats; second-class passengers will get out and walk; third-class passengers will get out and push." And that was the difference. And do you know, we have all got too many first-class passengers in the house of God, members who are just riding along and causing the chariot of the Lord to go heavy by reason of their weight; and we've got all too many second-class passengers—members who are just watching the thing go—the do nothings; and what we need is more of the third-class kind that will get down and put their heart and shoulder to the wheels of the kingdom of God and do their bit in shoving it along..

Can't Understand Church Men.

I never could understand some church members. You seem to think because God has saved your own soul that you've nothing to do but to sit down and fold your hands and let the rest of the world go to the Devil in its own sweet way. You seem to think that all you've got to do is just to sit down and sing yourself away into everlasting bliss. Well, you keep that sort of a thing up long enough, and as a friend of mine says, "You'll get blis-tered all right enough before you get through."

I. Now Nehemiah had all three classes in his crowd. He had his jerkers. In chapter four it says that certain of the Jews came to him ten times in one day and began to whine out their miserable "can't." You can't do it, Nehemiah; the enemy will certainly overpower you; it is a hopeless undertaking; you'd better give it up; it can't be done.

And so in the church we have our jerkers, our proverbial wet-blanket throwers, our faultfinders. This is the discouraging thing about church work. It takes a strong pull, and a long pull and a pull all together to make things go as they ought, but it's mighty discouraging work for the lead horses when the wheel horse lay back on the breechbands and sometimes balk altogether. The trouble with a lot of your church members in East Liverpool is that you wear out a dozen pair of hold-backs to one pair of tugs. You are like the boy on the football team. Mrs. Flannigan said to Mrs. Finnigan:

"They tell me your son has got a position on the college football team."

"Yes, indeed," said the proud mother.

"Well," said Mrs. Flannigan, "what position is it that your son plays?"

Fools Can Find Fault.

It doesn't take any brains to find fault. Any fool can do that. Some people find fault with everything. Somebody has said that when God was making the universe He finished up with the rattlesnake, the vampire, the toad and the skunk, and then He had some awful substance left and he didn't know what to do with it, and He made a Knocker out of it. No man has a right to be a knocker as long as there is a pool of water big enough to drown himself in. Judas Iscariot was a knocker, but he was gentleman enough to go out and hang himself.

Some people find fault with everything. They find fault because I preach without a vest; but God promised me when I began to burn out my life for Christ and His gospel that I could be comfortable while I was doing it, and if you think that I am going to get into a straight-jacket or put on a corset to please your fastidious taste, why, you've got another "think coming, that's all."

You find fault about my grammar and complain that I say "git" for "get." But bless your little soul I used to teach grammar. They find fault with the way this tabernacle is built and they couldn't build a respectable chicken coop to save their necks. They find fault with the singing, and they don't know any more about music than a backyard feline knows about Handel's Messiah or the Hallelujah Chorus.

Some Deplore Everything.

But you know there are some folks whose chief concern it seems to be is to deplore the state of things in general and to be everlastingly opposed to what the pastor and the majority want to do. Instead of their prayer book they have always got out their hammer. They are always ready to offer their services as a pallbearer before the patient is quite dead.

Like a Scotchman who wanted to be an elder, and they said to him.

"If you want to be an elder, what can you do? Can you lead the prayer meeting?

"No, he said he didn't think he would make a good hand at that.

"Well," they said, "can you lead in prayer?"

"No," he said he never was very much of a hand to lead in prayer in public. "Well," they said, "if you want to be an elder, what can you do? Can you visit the sick?

"N," he said he was never very good at that.

Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

By JACKSON GREGORY.

"Really, does that concern you? If the price suits me and Miss Sanford, who own the stock, does it in any way affect you? I don't want to quarrel with you, Carson, and I do appreciate that you are a good man in your way. But just because you have worked here a long time, don't make the mistake of thinking that you own the ranch."

With that he whirled his horse, and was gone. Carson, with puckered brows, stared after him.

But orders were orders, and Carson, though the heart was sore, barked out his commands to his herders to turn the cattle back toward the lower fields. He had been converted to the new way, he had grown to dream of the fat prices his cow brutes would fetch in the winter market, he knew that prices now were rock-bottom low, that Doan, Rockwell & Haight were close buyers who before now had cut the throat of the Blue Lake ranch in sacrifice sales when Bayne Trevors ran the outfit.

"We're standing to lose thousan's an' thousan's of dollars," he told himself in disguest. "All we've spent on irrigation an' fences an' silos an' ditches, all gone to heck in a han'-basket. Not counting thousan's o' more dollars lost in selling at what we can get this time of year. It makes me sick, d—n throwin'-up sick."

Riding down a long, winding trail, out through a patch of chaparral into a rocky gorge, Hampton turned east again toward the high plateau. Taking the rroundabout way which led from the far side of the lake and along the flank of the mountain to the table-land, he came to a scattering band of horses and Tommy Burkitt.

"Where's Lee?" called Hampton.

Burkitt grinned at him by way of greeting, and then pointed across the pleateau to a ravine leading to a still higher, smaller, shut-in valley. Hampton galloped on and a quarter of an hour later came up with Lee. The horse foreman was sitting still in his saddle, his eyes taking stock of a fresh bit of pasture into which he planned turning his horses a little later. It was one of a dozen small meadows on the mountain creeks where the canyon walls widened out into an oval-shaped valley, less than a half-imie long, where there was much rich grass.

"Hello, Hampton," called Lee pleasantly. "What's the word?"

The perspiration streaming down Hampton's face had in no way dampened his ardor.

"Big doings," he cried warmly. "We're cutting loose, Bud, at last and pilling up the shining ducats! You're to gather up a hundred of the most likely cayuses you've got and shove them down to the Lower End. We're selling pretty heavily to Doan, Rockwell & Haight."

A new flicker came into Lee's eyes. Then they went hard as polished agate.

"I didn't quite get you, Hampton," he said softly. "You say we're selling a hundred horses? Now?"

Hampton nodded, understanding nothing of what lay in Lee's heart.

"On the jump, just as fast as we can get them on the run," he said triumphantly. "Judith wanted me to tell you."

"I see," answered Lee slowly.

His eyes left Hampton's flushed face and went to the distant cliffs. It was no way of Bud Lee's to hide his eyes from a man, and yet now he did hide them. He did not want Hampton to see what they showed so plainly, in spite of his attempt to master his emotion. He was hurt. Long ago he offended Judith, and she had waited until now to repay his rude insult with this cool little slap in the face. She had not consulted him, and now she sent Hampton and did not even come to him with a word of explanation. It was quite as if she had said:

"You are just a servant of mine, like the rest, Bud Lee, and I treat you accordingly."

Until Judith had come, there had been nothing that this man loved as he did his work among the horses. He watched them as day after day they grew into clean-blooded perfection; he appraised their values; he saw personally to their education, helping each one of them individually to become the true representative of the proudest species of animal life. Had he turned his eye now to the herd down yonder he could have seen the animal he had selected for a brood-made next year, the three-year-old destined to draw all eyes as he stepped daintily among the best of the single-footers in Golden Gate park, the rich red bay gelding that he would mate for a splendid carriage team. . . . Oh, he knew them all like human friends, planned the future for each, the sale of each would be no sorrow but rather a triumph of success. And now, to see them lumped and sold to Doan, Rockwell & Haight—even that hurt. But most of all did Judith's treatment of him cut, cut deep.

"You're a fool, Bud Lee," he told himself softly. "Oh, G—d, what a fool!"

"The buyers will be here the first thing tomorrow," said Hampton. "Judith says we're to have everything ready for them."

"I'll not keep her waiting," answered Lee quietly. And with a quick touch of the spur he whirled his horse and left Hampton abruptly, going straight to the plateau.

"Round 'em up, Tommy," he said sharply. "Every d—n hoof of them. They go back to the corrals."

Though quick questions surged up in Tommy's brain, none of them was asked just yet, for he had seen the look on Lee's face.

It was early in the afternoon when Hampton carried his messages to Carson and Lee. It was after dark when Lee, his work done, his heart still sore and heavy, came into the men's bunk house. It was very still, though close to a dozen men were in the room. Lee's eyes found Carson and he guessed the reason for the silence. Carson was in a towering rage that flamed red-hot in his eyes; under the spell of his dominating emotion, the men sat and stared at him.

"Well, what's wrong?" asked Lee coolly from the door.

"Good goddlemighty!" growled Carson snappishly. "You stan' there an' ask what's the matter. If they's anything that ain't the matter an' you'll spell its name to me I'll put in with you. The whole outfit's going to pot, an' I, for one, don't care how soon it goes."

Q. How did the term, "French leave," originate? S. T. I.

A. Most authorities believe that the term can be traced to the eighteenth century French custom of withdrawing from crowded assemblies without taking leave of the host and hostess. Another explanation is that the word "French" is a corruption of the word "frank," meaning free.

Q. What flag is meant by the "Red Duster?" O. O. B.

A. This term is familiarly applied by sailors to the British merchant flag. It is a red flag with the British Union Jack in the upper left hand corner.

Q. Does a property owner control use of the air above his ground? M. J.

A. Legally, a property owner owns the surface, below, and above it. If he held to the letter of the law, he could require that permission be asked before an aviator flew over his property. The supreme court of Texas gave nominal damages to a property owner for such a trespass.

Q. What is the difference between an atheist and an infidel? L. V. P.

A. An atheist denies the existence of a God; while an infidel is a person who does not believe in a specified faith.

Q. What is the longest great trial on record? S. I. F.

A. While we find no official data on this, it is reported that the Willett case in Massachusetts, a trial now in its eleventh month is one of the longest in the annals of the world's jurisprudence. The trial commenced early in November of last year and still continues.

Q. What is the value of the Trinity Church property, formerly the Anneke Jans farm? G. E. Q.

A. According to a statement in Ruer's "New York," recently published, the Trinity Church property is valued at $17,600,000.

Q. Which State has the most public libraries? T. B. F.

A. The Bureau of Education Bulletin says that Massachusetts has many more libraries than any other State.

Q. In the case of Ambassadors to the Vatican have they precedence over other members of the diplomatic body? M. R. K.

A. In Catholic countries, the Ambassadors of the Pope have the precedence that you mention. The Pope ranks as the first of Christian princes.

Q. Give me some information concerning the Corps of Royal Engineers in the British Army. L. E. F.

A. The Corps of Royal Engineers in the British Army was organized in 1763 and has always had its headquarters and training school at Chatham, near the South coast. In 1923 its strength was 1051 officers and 874 non commissioned officers and enlisted men. The latter are recruited from men who have served apprenticeships in some trade, preferably carpenters, electricians, machinists, painters, etc. The Corps has always been on a different basis from other branches of the Army. First appointment as a commissioned officer is obtained through the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich by open competitive examination.

Q. What is the principal mineral product of Kentucky? R. S.

A. Coal is the principal mineral product of Kentucky. The State contains areas belonging to the Applachian System and one in the Northwest to the Eastern interior field.

Q. When was canning first practiced? C. G.

A. It was first suggested during the Napolenic Wars. Near the end of the 18th century a prize was offered by the French Government for the most practical method of preserving foods for sea service and for military stores. M. Nicholas Appert of Paris began experimenting in 1795 and in 1809 submitted a treatise to the Government for which he received a prize of 2,000 francs. The canning industry was established in the United States in 1819 by Ezra Daggett.

Q. Has a woman ever presided over the opening of the Colchester, England, fishery season? S. F. C.

A. For the first time, this centuries-old ceremony has been conducted by a woman-Councillor, Catherine B. Alderton, Lady Mayor of Colchester.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

(Any reader can get the answer to any uestion by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. offer applies strictly to information. The bureau can not give advice on legal, medical, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive search on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.

Q. How did the term, "French leave," originate? S. T. I.

A. Most authorities believe that the term can be traced to the eighteenth century French custom of withdrawing from crowded assemblies without taking leave of the host and hostess. Another explanation is that the word "French" is a corruption of the word "frank," meaning free.

Q. What flag is meant by the "Red Duster?" O. O. B.

A. This term is familiarly applied by sailors to the British merchant flag. It is a red flag with the British Union Jack in the upper left hand corner.

Q. Does a property owner control use of the air above his ground? M. J.

A. Legally, a property owner owns the surface, below, and above it. If he held to the letter of the law, he could require that permission be asked before an aviator flew over his property. The supreme court of Texas gave nominal damages to a property owner for such a trespass.

Q. What is the difference between an atheist and an infidel? L. V. P.

A. An atheist denies the existence of a God; while an infidel is a person who does not believe in a specified faith.

Q. What is the longest great trial on record? S. I. F.

A. While we find no official data on this, it is reported that the Willett case in Massachusetts, a trial now in [illegible] month is one of the longest in the annals of the world's jurisprudence. The trial commenced early in November of last year and still continues.

Q. What is the value of the Trinity Church property, formerly the Anneke Jans farm? G. E. Q.

A. According to a statement in Ruer's "New York," recently published, the Trinity Church property is valued at $17,600,000.

Q. Which State has the most public libraries? T. B. F.

A. The Bureau of Education Bulletin says that Massachusetts has many more libraries than any other State.

Q. In the case of Ambassadors to the Vatican have they precedence over other members of the diplomatic body? M. R. K.

A. In Catholic countries, the Ambassadors of the Pope have the precedence that you mention. The Pope ranks as the first of Christian princes.

Q. Give me some information concerning the Corps of Royal Engineers in the British Army. L. E. F.

A. The Corps of Royal Engineers in the British Army was organized in 1763 and has always had its headquarters and training school at Chatham, near the South coast. In 1923 its strength was 1051 officers and 874 non commissioned officers and enlisted men. The latter are recruited from men who have served apprenticeships in some trade, preferably carpenters, electricians, machinists, painters, etc. The Corps has always been on a different basis from other branches of the Army. First appointment as a commissioned officer is obtained through the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich by open competitive examination.

Q. What is the principal mineral product of Kentucky? R. S.

A. Coal is the principal mineral product of Kentucky. The State contains areas belonging to the Applachian System and one in the Northwest to the Eastern interior field.

Q. When was canning first practiced? C. G.

A. It was first suggested during the Napolenic Wars. Near the end of the 18th century a prize was offered by the French Government for the most practical method of preserving foods for sea service and for military stores. M. Nicholas Appert of Paris began experimenting in 1795 and in 1809 submitted a treatise to the Government for which he received a prize of 2,000 francs. The canning industry was established in the United States in 1819 by Ezra Daggett.

Q. Has a woman ever presided over the opening of the Colchester, England, fishery season? S. F. C.

A. For the first time, this centuries-old ceremony has been conducted by a woman-Councillor, Catherine B. Alderton, Lady Mayor of Colchester.

Wellsville Lady Highly Enthused

In a Highly Nervous Condition and Suffering Greatly from Dizzy Spells and Indigestion, She Discovers Prompt Relief in "VENDOL."

"It's simply wonderful," enthusiastically replied Mrs. Lucie Williams, R. D. No. 2, Wellsville, O., when asked by the Vendol specialist at Mathew's Medicine Store how she liked Vendol, the new plant and herb discovery which is doing so much good in this section.

Mrs. Lucie Williams.

"I was in a highly nervous condition which was probably brought on by my rundown condition. Sometimes my liver went back on me and everything would seem dark and I'd get so dizzy and giddy I've had to hold on to something to keep from falling. No matter how careful I was in eating I'd get indigestion and my food would sour and sometimes even smelling food nauseated me.

"But since taking Vendol the change has surprised me. I can eat anything, even corned beef and cabbage, without any stomach distress. The dizziness has disappeared, my nerves are quieted, making it possible for me to fall right to sleep when I go to bed, and I feel better and stronger in every way."

"Thousands of folks in Ohio know how effective Vendol is in cases like the above and are recommending it to their friends for all stomach, liver and nervous disorders. In most cases great benefits are seen during the first week's treatment.

If you're weak, tired and rundown from constipation or any stomach, kidney or liver disorder see the Vendol Specialist at Mathew's Medicine Store at once and let him explain how this remarkable herbal remedy will bring you quick, permanent and complete relief.

Policeman Denies he Was Shot and Killed As Paper Reported

WHEELING, W. Va.—The character Mark Twain that the report of his death was "greatly exaggerated" was echoed here by Patrolman Harry Rice.

A Pittsburgh newspaper published an account of Rice's death, but the "victim" refused to believe it when he read the article.

Rice recently was shot and wounded by Dave Corbett, of Washington, D. C., who was sentenced to seven years imprisonment in the state penitentiary for the crime. In publishing the story the Pittsburgh newspaper stated Rice had been "killed."

Rice was swamped with congratulations for his remarkable recovery by friends who had read of his "demise."

The increase in the number of tourists from foreign countries to America this year about equalled that of the Americans going abroad.

Minister Fined.

"Well," they said, "if you want to be an elder what can you do?"

"Well," he said, "I can object."

Well, an objection may be a good thing once in a while, but why not be wings instead of weights; Why not instead of always trying to find fault try to find something to do? And what I pray is that the church members and Christian people of East Liverpool may come into sympathy with the thought of God for this hour. And remember what dear old Moody used to say. He said all your criticisms never saved a single solitary soul.

II. Then Nehemiah had his shirkers. In chapter three there is given a long list of the people who want to work, but the chapter closes by saying "Certain ones of the nobles of Judah put not their necks to the work of the Lord." Notice it was the "nobles" who wouldn't work. The hightoned members who were too busy playing bridge whist. Oh, yes, they pay all right, but that's about all they are worth. There are too many church members who are living in the 23rd Pslam where it says, "Lord, make me to lie down." And God is calling upon you to get up and get to work.

Now here is a little bit of profound philosophy. It may not sound like it, but it is. It is this: "A Christian ought to be a Christian."

You don't go to a carpenter shop to get your hair cut. And you don't go to a blacksmith shop to get your teeth filled or your fingers manicured. But when these men hang out their sign and advertise their business you know exactly what to expect when you go there. And when you join the church and hang out your sign and advertise to the world that you are a Christian, the world has a right to expect that you shall deliver the goods you advertise.

Members Need Spirituality.

Every Christian — every church member, ought to be a great spiritual locomotive full of divine life and power, headed for heaven with a whole train load of souls coming after you; but too many of you spend most of your time in the roundhouse waiting for repairs. Some people seem to think that when they join church they have a through ticket to glory with a Pullman berth and a porter to wake you up when the train arrives. But you try getting there that way and you get a hotbox on your hands as sure as you are sitting out there alive and breathing tonight.

Some people pray, "Thy kingdom come," and then they live and act as though they didn't care whether it came or not.

A man said one time, "I get mighty tired of having people ask me if I am a Christian; and I've been a member of the church for 33 years."

Now how much do you suppose that man's life was counting for God if he had been a member of the church for 33 years, and people had to keep asking him if he was a Christian to find out. I would like to know how you are going to tell whether a man is a Christian or not. Some people seem to think the church register will settle any doubt you might have about the matter; but you'll have to have a better record than any church register can ever furnish you before the pearly gates of God's glory world will swing wide open for your soul in the day of judgment.

It is just as much the business of the church to save souls as it is the business of an automobile factory to turn out automobiles. The only reason why I am here tonight is that more than 35 years ago a godly sister, now in heaven, put her hand on my shoulder and said, "Ed, don't you think you ought to be a Christian?" But God pity us, here we are and we don't seem to have the slightest conception why God ever saved us. We think we are saved to be wafted off to glory when we die, and cursed with the chill of indifference, the damning current of sin and worldliness sweeps on, and thousands right here in your city are being swept away with it. Oh, that God might arouse us!

Nehemiah's Workers.

III. And then, thank God, Nehemiah had his workers. It says "The people had a mind to work." Thank God, in his day, the most of them worked.

You never get anything done without work. The canvas of the Sistine Madonna would never have spoken to us with its voice of living color if it had not been for the months and years of patient toil by Raphael, its creator. George Eliot worked as much as six months on a single chapter in some of her novels. Thomas Edison tried to make his phonograph produce the sound of the letter "s" and he couldn't do it. He wanted the machine to say "Span," but it always said "Pan." And he worked 15 hours a day for 18 months and one day when he started the cylinder going round the phonograph began to talk and this is what it said, "Span, Span, Span." Work! Work! It takes work, but work will do anything.

They used to have greased paper for window panes, but now they's got the transparent glass. They used to have a crooked stick for a plow, but now they've got the modern steel plow 60 feet wide with 50 plowshares on it pulled by three traction engines and plowing up 150 acres of soil a day. Man used to live in a dugout, but bye and bye it got through his thick skull that one flat stone would lie on top of another and now we've got the handsome stone front of the modern millionaire. But it took work.

And then think how work has annihilated space. We used to carry our mail by the lumbering stage coach, but now we shoot them right through the air without even a wire to run them on. We used to travel by the old wooden ox cart, but now we've got the mighty, throbbing steam locomotive hitting it off on the steel rails 60 miles an hour. We used to have the old canoe hollowed out of a tree trunk, but now we have the mighty ocean greyhound making 30 knots an hour and going all the way from Liverpool to New York in a little less than five days. I went up in an air ship once. I was a fool for doing it. It was in the days when no matter what your nationality was when you went up you usually came down a rushing. I was scarred white. We made a mile a minute. I felt like a huge bird with white wings 30 feet long on either side. It was a hydroplane and went up over the water or I would have been a dead man tonight. And sure enough when we got up a good ways the blooming old thing broke. Then the aviator began to cuss. I knew then there was no danger, because men never cuss and profane the name of God when they kow they are going to die. It's the little coward that knows he's safe that engages in that dirty business. And he said, there's no danger; we always turn the engine off anyhow when we go down. And he just turned the beak of that old bird down and turned her tail up and we glided down and out over the surface of the lake as gracefully as a seagull dips down from the skies. Then he ran out to the end of the thing to keep it from rolling over backwards and signaled to the shore. They came out and towed us in. He got out his pliers, fixed the little thing that went wrong and said, "Come on; we're going up again." And I said "Good night; nothing doing." Why I expect to see the day when you can get into an electrescoot at East Liverpool and arrive in San Francisco three hours

E. L. H. S. SET FOR 17TH ANNUAL CLASH WITH LISBON

Boone's Eleven Confident Of Seventh Victory Over County Seat Gridiron Foe

Locals Expected to Roll up Decisive Score Despite Probable Absence of Line and Backfield Stars; Game Scheduled at 2:30.

East Liverpool and Lisbon high schools clash Saturday afternoon at Patterson field in the seventeenth battle between the two institutions, with followers of the Ceramic City school representatives confident of victory despite the fact that Boone's team may be crippled more severely than at any other time this season. The game is carded for 2:30 o'clock.

In the 16 games played by the two rivals to date, the county seaters have been winners in 10, or four more than the East Liverpool school. That the lead will be reduced a notch is the prediction of enthusiasts here.

But East Liverpool teams, in those 16 years have outscored the Lisbon school, the comparison showing 213 points to Lisbon's 208. The worst defeat that any Libon team ever handed the Blue and White was registered in 1911 when, at the peak of their prowess by reason of being one of the outstanding high school teams in the state that particular season, the county seaters rolled up a 61 to 0 score on the Lisbon gridiron on a Thanksgiving day.

But the Lisbonites were outdone in this respect also, for in 1922 E. L. H. S. swamped the enemy by a 78 to 0 tally.

Lisbon has won two of the five games she has played this season, beating Carrollton and Salineville and losing to Leetonia, Uhrichsville and East Palestine. East Liverpool has won three of its 1924 games and dropped two, conquering Newell, Sebring and Chester and bowing to the Alumni and Struthers.

Here are the respective records:

Year.	E. L. H. S.	Lisbon H. S.
1908	0	18
1908	0	5
1909	0	8
1909	0	6
1910	No game.
1913	12	14
1914	0	39
1917	13	7
1918	No game.
1919	0	12
1920	7	13
1921	6	13
1923	33	12

Following is the record of East Liverpool and Lisbon high school teams for the season of 1924 up to the present time:

E. L. H. S. 13; Newell H. S. 6.
E. L. H. S. 7; E. L. Ex-Highs 14.
E. L. H. S. 7; Sebring H. S. 3.
E. L. H. S. 40; Chester H. S. 0.
E. L. H. S. 7; Struthers H. S. 13.
Total points—E. L. H. S. 74; opponents 36.
Lisbon H. S. 20; Salineville H. S. 0.
Lisbon H. S. 6; Leetonia H. S. 24.
Lisbon H. S. 0; Uhrichsville H. S. 37.
Lisbon H. S. 7; East Palestine 13.
Lisbon H. S. 26; Carrollton H. S. 7.
Points scored—Lisbon H. S. 59; opponents 81.

EAST'S LEADERS GO INTO ACTION

Three Unbeaten Elevens on New York Gridirons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Three of the east's leading football teams, which have neither been beaten nor tied will appear on New York gridirons tomorrow. They are Lafayette and Washington and Jefferson, which will meet at the Yankee stadium, and Williams, which plays Columbia. Another headline game tomorrow will bring together Centre college and West Virginia at the Polo grounds.

W. & J. and Centre will work out on the local gridirons this afternoon, the former arriving in town this morning with the Praying Colonels due to appear a short time later. Lafayette is coming by special train from Easton, Pa., tomorrow morning.

The meeting between Centre and West Virginia is of particular interest because it was West Virginia that furnished the Colonels their first stepping stone to fame four years ago. On that occasion, Centre astounded the football world by beating the Mountaineers shortly after the latter had run wild through Princeton.

The old Army game is all right, but it doesn't seem to work against Notre Dame.

SPEARS ADDS FOUR TO TEAM

Will be Prepared for Emergencies in Centre Game.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 24.—Tonight the West Virginia university football squad of 29 players and the usual retinue of coaches, managers and trainers will be enroute to New York City where tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock the Mountaineer eleven is to meet Centre college in one of the week's most important games at the Polo grounds.

At the eleventh hour Dr. C. W. Spears, head coach, notified athletic officials that he had found it necessary to add four more men to the party. Originally he planned to take only 25 players to New York, but because of the condition of Captain Graham, Ed Morrison and "Kit" Lewis, he decided to increase the squad for emergency purposes.

The Mountaineers are traveling in a private car of a six Pullman coach special train and are due to arrive in New York at 7 a. m. tomorrow morning. On their arrival the West Virginians will go direct to the Waldorf Astoria hotel—their New York headquarters—and rest until game time.

Several hundred football fans from this section are making the trip on the "Mountaineer Special." Other hundreds are either already in New York or speeding in that direction by automobile and train. Despite counter attractions reports reaching here indicate that the West Virginia-Centre battle will draw a larger crowd than was at first expected.

Tomorrow's clash will be the third gridiron tilt between Centre and West Virginia. First honors in the other contests went to the Colonels, but the present Mountaineer machine intends to furnish material for a different story in the skirmish at the Polo grounds.

The Centre team is a veteran aggregation and boasts of a leading dropkicker, runner and field general in Captain Covington; a sure place kicker and stalwart end in Lemon; and a line ripping back in Gordy.

West Virginia is also fortified wth a few experienced men and in view of its showing so far this year is a slight favorite on the sport curb.

SPORT SPARKS

After a long string of victories, Cornell's football warriors seem to be slipping. The 10 to 0 whitewash applied by Rutgers, following a 14 to 7 defeat by little Williams the week before, was a crushing blow to the Ithacans.

Any one predicting at the start of the season that the big Red team would score only one touchdown in two games would have been considered promising material for the insane asylum Shardes of Eddie Kaw and George Pfann!

And there is the possibility that the worst is yet to come, as the inebriated gentleman remarked after stepping on a mousetrap while sneaking up the back stairs.

The manner in which Columbia held Pennsylvania to a 10 to 7 score indicates that Percy Haughton has developed a fine defensive team If the New York outfit develops a scoring punch, it may realize its great ambition by beating Cornell.

Dartmouth's great opportunity to beat Yale has passed on along with long skirts and long hair. Curiously enough, it was a fumble by the brilliant Oberlander that allowed the Elis to tie the score.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

Uncle Wilbert Robinson believes that from the list of young pitchers he tried out last spring and the early weeks of the 1924 campaign he can find two or three men who can help Dazzy Vance, Burleigh Grimes, Decatur and Young Ehrhardt pitch the Brooklyn Dodgers to a pennant next season. A few poorly pitched games when Vance and Grimes weren't available, cost the Dodgers the 1924 flag.

Ehrhardt, it will be recalled, joined the team late last season and pitched winning ball from the drop of the hat.

Last spring Robbie had Dutch Henry, Danny McPhee, Green, Hollingsworth, Osborne, Decatur and Schreiber. During the season he acquired old Bill Doak from the Cardinals.

McPhee, a Canadian pitcher, needed more experience and was farmed out. So were Green and Hollingsworth. Henry was sent to New Orleans after the season opened. Decatur, Osborne and Schreiber remained with the club all season.

Robbie has recalled all the flingers he placed last season and gets Henry back again.

Decatur should be a bigger winner next season, by virtue of the opportunities he had last season to find himself. Schreiber seemed about ready. He did win six games. Osborne won half a dozen games also. The last two will have to fight it out with the returning hopefuls for regular berths next spring.

Oh, what a wonderful time for England to produce a real heavyweight!

Luis Firpo, the Argentine wild man, has became an old story, albeit still a fairly interesting one. Eriminio Spalla, Italian heavy, has failed to shine. Quintin Romero Rojas, Chilean husky, is coming, but has a long road to travel as yet. Georges Carpentier and Battling Siki have faded from the picture. Other foreigners have proved to be bloomers.

The time is ripe for a first-class Britisher to make a cleanup. The opportunity probably will go begging however. Jack Bloomfield, the newcomer in the heavyweight limelight in the British Isles, blew up quickly. English fans once more have no one in sight.

Here's a thought for the day for Manager Stanley Harris of the Senators. If Walter Johnson decides to quit the mound and take over the ownership and management of a minor league outfit who will carry his load in the 1925 campaign for the world's champions! Men have grown gray worrying about less difficult problems.

What part did old Jack Chesbro play in helping the Washington Senators win the American league pennant and the world's series?

Chesbro, the man who hung up 41 victories for the New York Americans, was engaged last spring to coach the Washington pitchers He centered his attention on Marberry, who turned out to be a wonderful relief hurler. Zachary, who won two world's series games, and the youngsters.

A few weeks after the season opened Chesbro was canned to cut down expenses.

Chesbro is one of the old timers who played the game mainly for the game. He took personal pride in his efforts while he was working with the Washington hurlers. That he was not kept to share in the glory that later was theirs is unfortunate.

Wife Interfered With His Bath; Sues for Divorce

Hanson stated in his complaint it always has been his custom to take a bath every week, but in the last three years he declared his wife would do all in her power to prevent him. She would turn off the heater and refuse him the use of hot water and soap, according to the complaint.

Coach John McEwan Resents Charges That Cadet Eleven Gets Its Stars Ready Made

Points Out Five Unknowns; Also Reveals That He's Allowed Only 38 Men and But Three Practice Sessions Each Week.

By Davis J. Walsh.

WEST POINT, Oct. 24.—"Look out there" Captain John J. McEwan, head coach of Army football, pointed with duly dramatic gesture at eleven young men running through signals at his 'varsity. "There are five men on that team who wouldn't be in a football suit at any of our big colleges."

John is very much exercised over the current tendency to charge the Army with getting its players ready-made.

"If those five men are ready made, I'm a toe dancer," said the captain in a manner that gave one the impression he didn't really believe he was a toe dancer.

The identity of the misfit five, perforce, he didn't disclose, but it is assumed they didn't include Garbisch, former all-American center; or Ellinger and Farwick, veteran guards, or Harry Wilson, All-American half back; Gilmore, veteran back and Bill Wood, star punter. By the process of elimination, that left Mack and Griffith, tackles; Frasier and Born, and Yeomans, quarterback.

To ease the obvious pain, the writer suggested that these men had done rather well against Notre Dame last week. Ha, ha, replied the captain in the merry tones of a man who has just sustained a broken leg. Ha, ha. They were boxed on every play.

McEwan shook a doleful head. It was the only kind he had for that particular subject. But Army football and Army is his complex, his phobia, his fetish.

"In student enrollment, we are just a small college," he continued. "In discipline and the demands on the student's time, we are just a military post. Not much time for football; thre days a week, in fact. Only thirty-eight men allowed on my 'varsity squad."

He ticked off these melancholy items on one finger after another. "A football player is just another cadet here," he added and went on to tell about Wilson, an idol at Penn State last year. The latter is one of several hundred plebes with few, if any, privileges. He is hauled out of bed in the morning at 6:30 and is bullied at random by upper classmen any time they might decide that his position at table is not sufficiently erect or that his deportment is not all that a plebe's should be.

Wilson, it seems, wanted a military career and he is getting it. According to the story he told his old coach, Hugo Bezdek, of his ambition and it was Bezdek who arranged his entry into West Point. The writer was given the impression that Wilson may not have been acclaimed, so to speak, at the Point. Tiny Hewitt, ex-Pitt back had something of the same trouble last year but is said to be coming splendidly now. They got Hewitt down to 192 pounds for the last Navy game. He weighed 240 entering school several months before.

The writer broke right into secret practice yesterday, the present year being the first in which the Army has employed this system.

McEwan, it seems, ...covered last year that some of the opposing teams were calling the turn before his quarterback had finished a signal and that wasn't exactly gratifying.

ATHENS.—The Athens Electric company, which serves a number of towns and rural districts, has announced a cut in rural rates from 15 cents to 11 cents a kw hour. Increased business is indicated, according to the company.

E. L. H. S. SET FOR 17TH ANNUAL CLASH WITH LISBON

Locals Expected to Roll up Decisive Score Despite Probable Absence of Line and Backfield Stars; Game Scheduled at 2:30.

East Liverpool and Lisbon high schools clash Saturday afternoon at Patterson field in the seventeenth battle between the two institutions, with followers of the Ceramic City school representatives confident of victory despite the fact that Boone's team may be crippled more severely than at any other time this season. The game is carded for 2:30 o'clock.

In the 16 games played by the two rivals to date, the county seaters have been winners in 10, or four more than the East Liverpool school. That the lead will be reduced a notch is the prediction of enthusiasts here.

But East Liverpool teams, in those 16 years have outscored the Lisbon school, the comparison showing 213 points to Lisbon's 208. The worst defeat that any Libon team ever handed the Blue and White was registered in 1911 when, at the peak of their prowess by reason of being one of the outstanding high school teams in the state that particular season, the county seaters rolled up a 61 to 0 score on the Lisbon gridiron on a Thanksgiving day.

But the Lisbonites were outdone in this respect also, for in 1922 E. L. H. S. swamped the enemy by a 78 to 0 tally.

Lisbon has won two of the five games she has played this season, beating Carrollton and Salineville and losing to Leetonia, Uhrichsville and East Palestine. East Liverpool has won three of its 1924 games and dropped two, conquering Newell, Sebring and Chester and bowing to the Alumni and Struthers.

Here are the respective records:

Year.	E. L. H. S.	Lisbon H. S.
1908	0	18
1908	0	5
1909	0	8
1909	0	6
1910	No game.
1911	0	61
1913	12	14
1914	0	39
1917	13	7
1918	No game.
1919	0	12
1920	7	13
1921	6	13
1923	33	12

Following is the record of East Liverpool and Lisbon high school teams for the season of 1924 up to the present time:

E. L. H. S. 13; Newell H. S. 6.
E. L. H. S. 7; E. L. Ex-Highs 14.

Three Unbeaten Elevens on New York Gridirons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Three of the east's leading football teams, which have neither been beaten nor tied will appear on New York gridirons tomorrow. They are Lafayette and Washington and Jefferson, which will meet at the Yankee stadium, and Williams, which plays Columbia. Another headline game tomorrow will bring together Centre college and West Virginia at the Polo grounds.

W. & J. and Centre will work out on the local gridirons this afternoon, the former arriving in town this morning with the Praying Colonels due to appear a short time later. Lafayette is coming by special train from Easton, Pa., tomorrow morning.

The meeting between Centre and West Virginia is of particular interest because it was West Virginia that furnished the Colonels their first stepping stone to fame four years ago. On that occasion, Centre astounded the football world by beating the Mountaineers shortly after the latter had run wild through Princeton.

The old Army game is all right, but it doesn't seem to work against Notre Dame.

SPEARS ADDS FOUR TO TEAM

Will be Prepared for Emergencies in Centre Game.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 24.—Tonight the West Virginia university football squad of 29 players and the usual retinue of coaches, managers and trainers will be enroute to New York City where tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock the Mountaineer eleven is to meet Centre college in one of the week's most important games at the Polo grounds.

At the eleventh hour Dr. C. W. Spears, head coach, notified athletic officials that he had found it necessary to add four more men to the party. Originally he planned to take only 25 players to New York, but because of the condition of Captain Graham, Ed Morrison and "Kit" Lewis, he decided to increase the squad for emergency purposes.

The Mountaineers are traveling in a private car of a six Pullman coach special train and are due to arrive in New York at 7 a. m. tomorrow morning. On their arrival the West Virginians will go direct to the Waldorf Astoria hotel—their New York headquarters—and rest until game time.

Several hundred football fans from this section are making the trip on the "Mountaineer Special." Other hundreds are either already in New York or speeding in that direction by automobile and train. Despite counter attractions reports reaching here indicate that the West Virginia-Centre battle will draw a larger crowd than was at first expected.

Tomorrow's clash will be the third gridiron tilt between Centre and West Virginia. First honors in the other contests went to the Colonels, but the present Mountaineer machine intends to furnish material for a different story in the skirmish at the Polo grounds.

The Centre team is a veteran aggregation and boasts of a leading dropkicker, runner and field general in Captain Covington; a sure place kicker and stalwart end in Lemon; and a line ripping back in Gordy.

West Virginia is also fortified wth a few experienced men and in view of its showing so far this year is a slight favorite on the sport curb.

SPORT SPARKS

After a long string of victories, Cornell's football warriors seem to be slipping. The 10 to 0 whitewash applied by Rutgers, following a 14 to 7 defeat by little Williams the week before, was a crushing blow to the Ithacans.

Any one predicting at the start of the season that the big Red team would score only one touchdown in two games would have been considered promising material for the insane asylum Shardes of Eddie Kaw and George Pfann!

And there is the possibility that the worst is yet to come, as the inebriated gentleman remarked after stepping on a mousetrap while sneaking up the back stairs.

The manner in which Columbia held Pennsylvania to a 10 to 7 score indicates that Percy Haughton has developed a fine defensive team If the New York outfit develops a scoring punch, it may realize its great ambition by beating Cornell.

Dartmouth's great opportunity to beat Yale has passed on along with long skirts and long hair. Curiously enough, it was a fumble by the brilliant Oberlander that allowed the Elis to tie the score.

before you start—Yes, figure it up and see.

But it all means work, and a lot of it. There is a religious sect out in Los Angeles that don't believe in work. Lo sAngeles is a city of nuts anyway. But these folks say that Jesus taught us to pray and say, "Give us this day or daily bread," and they propose to live a life of absolute faith and let Him give it to them. They say they are not going to pray, "Give us this day our daily bread" and then insult God by working for it. But I'd as lief be a Weary Willie and expect to dine three times a day on the choicest delicacies of the land as to loaf around with a bunch of religious cranks like that and expect God to keep my body and soul together and never hit a lick myself. That isn't God's way. He says here is the earth. I'll give you the seed and the sunshine to make it warm and the rain to make it moist, but you'll have to tear up the soil, and plant the seed and care for the tender growth if you want the harvest. He says here are the mountains ribbed with iron and stored with gold and silver and lead and zinc, but you will have to cut into the bowels of the earth and dig it out; I won't mine it for you, and I won't smelt it or refine it for you.

Works And Faith.

And that's just the way it is with the cause of Christ. James says "faith without works don't amount to shucks." He doesn't put it just that way, but that's what he means. And that's the trouble with the church today. There are too many living around on God's territory with a dead faith. You expect the preacher to do it all. You say that's what we pay him for. Well, the Lord knows you pay him little enough, and the preachers didn't tell me to say this either, although I expect some of them are saying "amen" in their hearts. And then you go around and gossip among yourselves and say, "Oh, the preachers, they are a sorry set." Well, maybe they are, but I reckon they are doing the best we can with the material we got to work on. God himself couldn't make a good sword out of some kind of steel unless he put a new temper into it. God expects us to work.

A young man was dying and as his mother went by his bed room door she heard him saying "lost, lost, lost" and she went in and said "Why, my boy what do you mean by saying that? You are a member of the church and you have been a good Christian!" "Yes," he said, "Mother, I know I am saved so far as myself is concerned, but I have lost my life; in all my life I never led another soul to Jesus Christ."

"Must I go and empty handed;
Thus my dear Redeemer meet;
Not one soul with which to greet Him,
Lay no trophy at his feet."

The Shepherd Dog.

I can't refrain from telling you the story of the shepherd dog, for, old as it is, it will bring the rebuke we need. One night when the storm was fierce the shepherd counted his sheep and found that three were missing. All day the blizzard had raged and as night came on with its sudden darkness, the snow swirled and the wind howled about the cabin door.

The shepherd's collie was lying by the fireside with her litter of puppies. He called her to the door and pointing out into the storm and ever-increasing darkness he said, "Floe, three sheep are out in the storm; go." She looked a moment at her young and then up into her master's face and hurried away into the night. Over the hills and down into the ravines, torn by the briars and bruised by the stones, the faithful brute kept up her hunt, and about 8 o'clock she came back and with her were two of the missing sheep. Bleeding and tired and drenched she dragged herself to the fireside. When the two that were found were safely in the fold, the shepherd came back again and called his dog and pointing once more into the storm said, "Floe, one sheep is still missing, go and find it." She gave her little ones a last lingering look and then with mute despair fooked up into her master's face, but went.

The storm seemed to grow fiercer with every passing minute; the elements seemed to vie with each other in doing their worst; trees bent before the wind and now and then they fell with a crash. One, two, three, four hours passed and the shepherd who had dozed away, heard a scratching at the cabin door. He went and opened it and the collie staggered in. Bleeding and torn and almost frozen, she made her way in to the light of the fire and fell, but she had brought the lost sheep with her. The shepherd took it in his arms to the fold and when he came back the faithful dog lay where she had fallen. At the sound of her master's footsteps she tried to get up. Slowly she moved towards her pups and fell dead with her head in the nest. And I said when I heard it, "if a poor dumb brute, without a soul to save, without knowledge of God and without hope of heaven, at the first bidding of its master, would serve like that, what a shame it is that we must know that our loved ones are lost and other souls are perishing round about us, and though we hear our Master's voice pleading with us to go, we do not stir.

People of East Liverpool, are you ready to ask the unsaved to come to Christ. I am. Our Master, Himself, had trodden the way. Let us, then, take a look into His face, the face of the Man with the nail-pierced hands, the spear-riven side, and the thorn-pierced brow, and away!

before you start—Yes, figure it up and see.

But it all means work, and a lot of it. There is a religious sect out in Los Angeles that don't believe in work. Lo sAngeles is a city of nuts anyway. But these folks say that Jesus taught us to pray and say, "Give us this day or daily bread," and they propose to live a life of absolute faith and let Him give it to them. They say they are not going to pray, "Give us this day our daily bread" and then insult God by working for it. But I'd as lief be a Weary Willie and expect to dine three times a day on the choicest delicacies of the land as to loaf around with a bunch of religious cranks like that and expect God to keep my body and soul together and never hit a lick myself. That isn't God's way. He says here is the earth. I'll give you the seed and the sunshine to make it warm and the rain to make it moist, but you'll have to tear up the soil, and plant the seed and care for the tender growth if you want the harvest. He says here are the mountains ribbed with iron and stored with gold and silver and lead and zinc, but you will have to cut into the bowels of the earth and dig it out; I won't mine it for you, and I won't smelt it or refine it for you.

Works And Faith.

And that's just the way it is with the cause of Christ. James says "faith without works don't amount to shucks." He doesn't put it just that way, but that's what he means. And that's the trouble with the church today. There are too many living around on God's territory with a dead faith. You expect the preacher to do it all. You say that's what we pay him for. Well, the Lord knows you pay him little enough, and the preachers didn't tell me to say this either, although I expect some of them are saying "amen" in their hearts. And then you go around and gossip among yourselves and say, "Oh, the preachers, they are a sorry set." Well, maybe they are, but I reckon they are doing the best we can with the material we got to work on. God himself couldn't make a good sword out of some kind of steel unless he put a new temper into it. God expects us to work.

A young man was dying and as his mother went by his bed room door she heard him saying "lost, lost, lost" and she went in and said "Why, my boy what do you mean by saying that? You are a member of the church and you have been a good Christian!" "Yes," he said, "Mother, I know I am saved so far as myself is concerned, but I have lost my life; in all my life I never led another soul to Jesus Christ."

"Must I go and empty handed;
Thus my dear Redeemer meet;
Not one soul with which I greet Him,
Lay no trophy at his feet."

The Shepherd Dog.

I can't refrain from telling you the story of the shepherd dog, for, old as it is, it will bring the rebuke we need. One night when the storm was fierce the shepherd counted his sheep and found that three were missing. All day the blizzard had raged and as night came on with its sudden darkness, the snow swirled and the wind howled about the cabin door.

The shepherd's collie was lying by the fireside with her litter of puppies. He called her to the door and pointing out into the storm and ever-increasing darkness he said, "Floe, three sheep are out in the storm; go." She looked a moment at her young and then up into her master's face and hurried away into the night. Over the hills and down into the ravines, torn by the briars and bruised by the stones, the faithful brute kept up her hunt, and about 8 o'clock she came back and with her were two of the missing sheep. Bleeding and tired and drenched she dragged herself to the fireside. When the two that were found were safely in the fold, the shepherd came back again and called his dog and pointing once more into the storm said, "Floe, one sheep is still missing, go and find it." She gave her little ones a last lingering look and then with mute despair looked up into her master's face, but went.

The storm seemed to grow fiercer with every passing minute; the elements seemed to vie with each other in doing their worst; trees bent before the wind and now and then they fell with a crash. One, two, three, four hours passed and the shepherd who had dozed away, heard a scratching at the cabin door. He went and opened it and the collie staggered in. Bleeding and torn and almost frozen, she made her way in to the light of the fire and fell, but she had brought the lost sheep with her. The shepherd took it in his arms to the fold and when he came back the faithful dog lay where she had fallen. At the sound of her master's footsteps she tried to get up. Slowly she moved towards her pups and fell dead with her head in the nest. And I said when I heard it, "if a poor dumb brute, without a soul to save, without knowledge of God and without hope of heaven, at the first bidding of its master, would serve like that, what a shame it is that we must know that our loved ones are lost and other souls are perishing round about us, and though we hear our Master's voice pleading with us to go, we do not stir.

People of East Liverpool, are you ready to ask the unsaved to come to Christ. I am. Our Master, Himself, had trodden the way. Let us, then, take a look into His face, the face of the Man with the nail-pierced hands, the spear-riven side, and the thorn-pierced brow, and away!

TIMELY VIEWS-WORLD TOPICS

"LEAGUE PROTOCOL AN IDLE BOAST OF PEACE," SAYS INTERNATIONAL LAW PROFESSOR.

Philip Marshall Brown, professor or International law at Princeton University, recently denounced the protocol of the amendments to the covenant adopted by the Assembly of the League of Nations at the recent Geneva conference as being nothing but petty politics. "It proves," he said, "how alarmed the league is for its prestige and how jealous it is of American leadership."

Dr. Brown, former charge d'affairs at Constantinople and lecturer at the Institute of International Law at Vienna, said the league had been greatly weakened by the failure of Lord Robert Cecil's plan for disarament, and that is feared President Coolidge might take the initative in calling a world conference while the league accomplished nothing.

Forced Through for Boast.

"The protocol was forced through to enable the league to say that it had outlawed war for all time," Dr. Brown added. "Arbitration is to be compulsory and coercion is to be applied to any nation that refuses to accept the jurisdiction of the league to consider even questions of a domestic national character, such as immigration.

"No generous-minded person," Dr. Brown went on to say, "can deny the desirability of disarmament, but this action at Geneva is unworthy of serious respect. It is an ill-considered, hurried attempt to accomplish something spectacular with the object clearly in view of forestalling action by the United States. This is confirmed most conclusively by the extraordinary memorandum drawn up by bitter partisans of the league and circulated at Geneva, which was printed in the World of September 29.

Europe in Shaky Condition.

"Europe is now on the most shaky foundations laid by the peace conference at Paris. Disarmament cannot come until legitimate grievances have been satisfied. To seek peace through paper proclamations and threats of coercion is evidence of insincere and dangerous result in damage to the prestige of the league."

Dr. Brown went on to say that in his opinion the chances of the protocol being ratified by the most influential members of the league were very slight, naming England as one of the obstacles.

"In the meantime the protocol precludes and action by the United States for a disarmament conference in the near future. For all practical purposes disarmament is as for off as ever."

HAD GIVEN UP HOPE HE SAYS

But Herbal Remedy, Ka-di-ok, Has Brought Relief to This Sufferer From Rheumatic Pains.

Mr. Jacob Crawford

"I had given up hope of ever getting relief until Ka-di-ok proved to me it's a real, wonderful medicine. I shall keep on taking it at all times."

This was the statement of Mr. Jacob Crawford, 158 Foster street, Mansfield, Ohio, where he has lived for the past year. Prior to taking up employment with the local plant of the Westinghouse Electric company, Mr. Crawford lived in Perrysville, Ohio, where he is very well known.

In talking with the Ka-di-ok representative, Mr. Crawford said: "I suffered with aches and pains in my limbs for a long time and I was unable to get any relief until I started taking Ka-di-ok. I want to say it has been a real help to me. I no longer suffer from pains of any kind and I am feeling fine."

It is Mr. Crawford's hope that others who suffer in a similar way may profit by his experience and try this remedy which thousands of people in all walks of life have proclaimed the greatest remedy in the world. Many hopeless cases of various ailments due to disorders of the stomach, kidneys and liver have been given almost instant relief.

Ka-di-ok is specially recommended for rheumatism, indigestion, poor blood, auto-intoxication, gas or bloating after meals, tiredness, loss of weight, inability to sleep and general debility. Try a bottle at once. You have everything to gain.

Ka-di-ok can be obtained in East Liverpool at the Mathew's Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 West 6th St.
